TRUMAN CLINGS TO SLIGHT LEAD

Congressional Control Within Demos, Grasp

Elect 16 Senators To GOP's 5, Win 188 House Seats To 86

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.— (Wednesday)—(AP)—Barring upsets, Democrats won control of both branches of Congress in Tuesday's elections.

On the basis of unofficial returns, President Truman's party elected 16 senators against five for the Republicans and 188 representatives against 86 for the Republicans.

They had needed a net gain of only four Senate and 31 House seats for control.

Senate Democratic gains included seats now held by Republicans in Oklahoma, West Virginia, Iowa and Illinois. Their House gains included 36 Republican and one American-Labor seats. Only one House Democratic seat went to a Republican, and the GOP had captured no Democratic Senate seats.

12 Senate Seats In Doubt

Of the 12 Senate seats still in doubt, Democrats were leading in eight and Republicans in four. Democrats held margins in Minnesota, Kentucky and Wyoming, where seats now are held by Republicans.

Republicans were not ahead in any states where the Democrats are fighting to keep Senate seats already theirs.

Democrats lost both the House and the Senate in 1946.

At 3:25 a. m. (EST) Democrats had captured 35 Republican and one American-Labor seat in the House and had lost only one of their own for a net gain of 35 seats.

In the 187 seats they already had held they had elected 147 of their own candidates and 40 were in doubt.

Democrats won senatorial contests in Tennessee, Oklahoma and Colorado. The Colorado and Tennessee seats were Democratic in the last Congress, but Republicans had hoped to capture them. The Democratic victory in Oklahoma represented a distinct gain for their party, for the seat previously was filled by a Republican.

13 Demos Elected To Senate

Democratic nominees were ahead in Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, West Virginia and Wyoming for seats now held by Republicans, and in Montana and New Mexico for seats held by their own party.

In addition, Sen. Dworshak, Idaho Republican, was trailing Democrat Bert H. Miller.

In all, 13 Democrats had been elected to the Senate by 2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, including Lyndon Johnson in Texas and J. Melville Broughton in North Carolina.

To add to the Republican woes, Democrats led incumbent Republican senators in Delaware and New Jersey.

The Democrats grabbed a seat from their foes in Oklahoma by electing Robert S. Kerr. They retained another when Rep. Estes Kefauver knocked over his GOP opponent, B. Carroll Reece, former Republican national chairman.

They were well within shooting distance of controlling the Senate, which now has 51 Republicans and 45 Democrats.

In the House races, too, the Democrats chalked up significant gains, although there was no immediate indication they could figure on organizing that body. By 12:30 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) they had achieved a net gain of 11 House seats.

Man From Missouri Ahead In 28 States And Gov. Dewey In 16

Still Is Chance Neither Will Get Clear Majority

[By The Associated Press]

President Harry S. Truman, the man who wouldn't say die, led Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today in one of the most astounding presidential elections of United States history.

The contest was far from over, but the man from Missouri whom the pollsters marked off as licked months ago, clung doggedly to a majority of the electoral votes.

At 4 a. m. (EST) Mr. Truman was leading in 28 states with 292 electoral votes, whereas Dewey was ahead in 16 states with 201. Needed for election: 266.

And the President's margin over Dewey in the popular tally was 1,131,000 with some 28,000,000 of an expected 50,000,000 or more ballots tabulated.

Amazingly, the Democrats swept into position to control both Senate and House of the 81st Congress—provided they suffer no upsets in the tabulations yet to come. And at this point the trend was for, not against, the administration party.

Neither the presidential struggle nor the congressional fight had been finally decided, but the mounting flood of the ballots had cast up enough surprises to keep the tongues of the experts wagging for months, if not years.

Dewey Wins N. Y., Pa.

As expected, Dewey captured the massive electoral tallies of New York and Pennsylvania, but as was distinctly not expected, Truman rolled into the lead in such states as Ohio, Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

Whereas Dewey's electoral total was built, by and large, on the votes of great, populous states, Truman swept into his column, at least tentatively, a lot of little and medium-sized ones.

And Truman would have been still further in the van, had it not been for the States' Rights bolters in Dixie. Their standard bearer, Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, carried his own state of South Carolina, plus Alabama and Mississippi. He was ahead, too, in Louisiana.

That spelled a possible total of 38 electoral votes.

Miners Resist French Police; 22 Are Injured

Gasoline, Grenades Hurled By Strikers

PARIS, Nov. 2 (AP)—Pickets fought their first battle in defense of the coal pits of Northern France against police today, and 22 persons were injured in the exchange of gunfire, grenades and stones.

A government official said the striking coal miners tried to burn police alive by throwing gasoline on the mand then heaving grenades and torches to set their clothing afiire.

The battle was fought at Lievin, 20 miles southwest of Lille, when police moved in to occupy the mine.

Officials said the miners first overturned a railroad car for a barricade on the highway. They dug trenches in the mine yard, poured oil into them and set it alight in an effort to halt the police.

Then they opened fire with rifles and small grenades, and tossed flaming torches, said Georges Guillemin, spokesman of the Interior Ministry.

Police replied with tear gas and sum-machine guns fired into the ground, the officials said. Seven police were injured, none seriously.

Achille Blondeau, a Communist leader of the strikers, said 15 miners were wounded. The Interior Ministry said it knew of no gun wounds among the 50 or 100 pickets.

After fighting for eight hours, the miners finally marched away flying a red flag and singing the Internationale.

The police occupied the mine, along with 48 other pits and six coke ovens during the day in the north. Numerous other mines were taken over elsewhere without incident.

The Interior Ministry said police and troops now held practically all 112 mines in the north where two-thirds of France's coal is mined.

Candidates Await People's Verdict

President "Can't See Anything But Victory"

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 2 (AP)—President Harry S. Truman—his straight Democratic ticket voted early—waited tonight in his 86-year-old rambling, white home for the voters' verdict, confident of victory.

"I can't see anything but victory," he told reporters after dropping his ballot into the voting box in Blue Township's Seventh Precinct this morning.

"Are you going to stay up tonight and listen to the returns?" newspapermen asked him when he arrived at the polls.

"I doubt it," he said with a smile. "I think I'll go to bed early. You won't know anything until tomorrow."

As he waited to drop his ballot into the box the gymnasium was alive with photographers and newsreel cameramen. Mr. Truman was asked, "How does it look to you?"

"I can't see anything but victory," he replied.

"Did you vote it straight, Mr. President?"

"What do you think?" he said, "of course." He had followed his own advice to the voters and voted the party ticket.

"I'm the sort that says as I do and as I say," he remarked, grinning.

Brownell Statement Cheers GOP Nominee

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey calmly awaited the people's verdict in the presidential election today after he and Mrs. Dewey voted and he chuckled:

"That's two votes we've got, anyhow."

The Republican nominee made the remark as his attractive wife came out of the balloting booth at P. S. School 18, a few blocks from their legal residence at the Hotel Roosevelt.

A few minutes earlier, at 12:20 p. m. (EST), the New York Governor had stepped behind the curtain, pulled the voting machine lever and cast his own ballot.

He was in and out in about five seconds.

Brownell said also there were indications of a record popular vote and that the GOP was counting on that to "insure retention of Republican control of the Senate by at least our present margin" of six seats.

After a 6 p. m. (EST) dinner at the Manhattan home of close friends, the GOP candidate was due back at his hotel suite to watch the returns come in.

Democrats Elect Eight Governors And GOP Three

Republicans Unset In Ohio And Illinois

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—(Wednesday) — (AP) — Democrats elected eight governors, including Ohio, early today while Republicans had seated but three.

In addition, the Chicago Tribune had conceded the defeat of Republican Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois to Adlai E. Stevenson, Democrat. The Tribune had backed green.

The Ohio contest ended when Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, Republican conceded defeat by former Gov. Frank Lausche. Other Democratic victories:

Arkansas, Sidney S. McMath; Florida, Fuller Warren; North Carolina, W. Kerr Scott; Rhode Island, John O.Pastore, incumbent; Tennessee, Gordon Browning; Texas, Beauford H. Jester, incumbent, and Georgia, where Herman Talmadge was unopposed.

GOP Scores In Iowa

Republicans won in Iowa with William S. Beardsley; Vermont with Ernest W. Gibson, incumbent, and Maine, where Frederick G. Payne was elected September 13.

In Michigan, 37-year-old G. Mennan Williams was still holding a slim lead over Republican Gov. Kim Sigler at 1:44 a. m. (EST). In the other crucial midwestern battle, Henry F. Schricker, Democrat, was

Gales Pound Two Disabled Ships

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Nov. 2 (AP)—Two disabled ships, with crews of 90 or more men aboard, were tossed about today as gale winds lashed Gulf of Alaska waters. Coast Guard craft rushed to their aid.

The storm ranged several hundred miles south, to Victoria, B. C. Winds raged at 60 miles an hour, with gusts up to 74 miles.

The crews of about 34 men on the navy tanker Mission Santa Cruz, drifting helplessly off Cape Ommaney, and 56 men on the LST-694, disabled southwest of Dixon Entrance, were apparently in no immediate danger, the Coast Guard said.

The Mission Santa Cruz, en route from Gulf ports to Anchorage at Skagway, blew a boiler last week and a cutter accompanied her into safe waters inside Cape Spencer. The oil cargo was discharged onto another tanker and the Navy tug Tillamook took it in tow for Seattle.

The towline broke in the heavy weather, a message to the Coast Guard said, and the line fouled the tug's propellor. Using a secondary rudder, the tug headed for Port Malmesbury for repairs.

The LST-694, en route from San Francisco to Shemya, in the Aleautians, had a disabled starboard engine but was making about four knots toward sheltered waters. The cutter Klamath was diverted to its aid.

Ex-Md. Bankers Head Dies

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP)—John B. Kieffer, 76-year-old former president of the Maryland Bankers Association, died of a stroke at his home here last night. He was a native of Hagerstown, Md., and the father of Dr. John S. Kieffer, president of St. Johns College in Annapolis, Md.

Ballots Are Reported Burned In S. Carolina

ANDERSON, S. C., Nov. 2. (AP)—The Anderson Daily Mail said ballots of all parties were burned today at one Anderson precinct after election managers decided to move the polling place across the street.

The newspaper quoted R. L. Lee, an election manager, as saying he burned the ballots after Election Commissioner Frank Hamlin told him they could not be moved to the new location. Hamlin issued an order several days ago saying it was not the duty or responsibility of election managers to provide or distribute ballots.

The poll was delayed in opening until shortly before noon because no ballots were available. Two hours after opening, the county ticket and the national Democratic (Truman) ballots were the only ones available.

Rep. Marcantonio Wins Bid For Seventh Term

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (Wednesday) (AP)—Rep. Vito Marantonio, veteran American Labor Party congressman, early today won his bid for a seventh term.

He got 35,937 votes in the 18th Congressional District on the upper east side of Manhattan to 31,482 for John Ellis, his Republican foe, and 31,184 for John Morrissey, Democrat.

Neely And Truman Score West Virginia Victories

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 3 (Wednesday) (AP) — West Virginia, where the coal miners came out by the thousands to vote, took away a Republican seat and handed its eight electoral votes to President Truman in yesterday's balloting.

With half the state's 2,785 precincts reported early today, all statewide Democratic candidates had seemingly insurmountable leads. The Democratic trend became evident at the start of tabulations and was not headed.

Matthew M. Neely, 73-year-old former senator, former governor and former congressman, was headed back to the seat he held three times before. It was turnabout for the veteran campaigner. Sen. Chapman Revercomb, Republican, defeated him in 1942.

In 1,402 precincts Neely had corralled a total of 226,148 votes to 166,947 for Revercomb. Six years ago Neely lost by 48,771 votes.

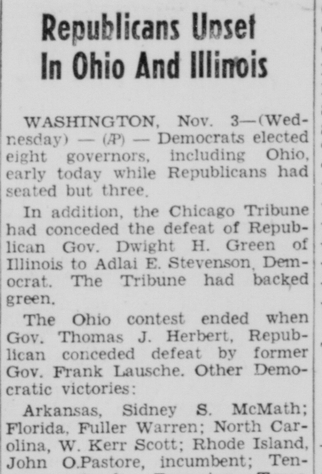
Okey L. Patteson, Democratic nominee for governor, enjoyed much the same ratio as the rest, polling 225,802 in 1,398 precincts to 167,124 for Herbert Boreman.

All six Democratic congressional nominees were in the lead.

The United Mine Workers of America, who came out strongly against Revercomb, turned out a heavy vote in the coal fields and their ballots were scoring in the counting for Neely.



MATTHEW NEELY . . . Leads in West Virginia Senate contest.

The UMW leaders also asked the 120,000 miners to scratch their tickets and vote for Thomas E. Dewey but there was little to indicate that they had.

Five Believed Killed In Crash Of U. S. Plane

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP)—Five Persons are believed to have been killed and five others seriously injured in the crash of an American transport plane tonight.

A spokesman for the United States Air Force said the transport, a C-47 Dakota en route from Northolt, near London, was coming in for a landing in darkness and rain when it crashed near the Wiesbaden air base.

Dewey Is Apparent Winner In Maryland

With 1,301 of the state's 1,347 polling places reported, unofficial returns gave the New York Republican 285,687 votes to 276,346 for the President.

Most of the remaining 46 polling places were in areas where Dewey showed strength.

The Republicans claimed the state for Dewey. In 1944, President Roosevelt carried the state by 22,441.

The other three bidders for Maryland's vote trailed far behind. With the same number of polling places reported Progressive Henry Wallace was credited with 8,962 votes; States' Rights Democrat Storm Thurmond had 2,384 write-in votes and Socialist Norman Thomas had 2,305.

The counties gave Dewey his hold on Maryland. President Truman won Baltimore City by more than 23,000 votes, in contrast to the 50,000-odd by which President Roosevelt carried it four years ago.

Maryland also re-elected five incumbent representatives — two Republicans and three Democrats.

The Second congressional seat Rep. Hugh A. Meade (D) lost in the May primaries was captured by State Sen. William P. Bolton, a Baltimore county Democrat.

Thus, Maryland will continue with two Republicans and four Democrats in its congressional delegation.

In other actions, the Maryland electorate:

1—Adopted an amendment to the state constitution barring members of "subversive organizations" from holding state, city or county jobs.

2—Decreed that there shall be an annual session of the Maryland General Assembly, instead of biennial sessions.

3—Threw out a general assembly act which would have had the effect of ending the term of office of W. Lee Elgin, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

4—Made it easier for Baltimore City to acquire property for slum clearance and off-street parking space.

Close to 600,000 of the state's 864,000 registered voters cast ballots despite a cloudy day that saw rain in some areas.

Pre-election forecasts by Democratic leaders were that President Truman would amass a majority of almost 50,000 votes in Baltimore City and that "The worst we can do in the counties is an 18,000 majority for Dewey."

When it became obvious that President Truman would fail to come up to expectations in Baltimore City, and returns from Montgomery County were heavily in favor of Dewey, Democratic headquarters in Baltimore became almost quiet, and the early air of optimism changed to one of doubt.

No statement had been issued from Democratic headquarters by 2:30 a. m.

TRUMAN CLINGS TO SLIGHT LEAD

Elect 16 Senators To GOP's 5, Win 188 House Seats To 86

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Barring upsets, Democrats won control of both branches of Congress in Tuesday's elections.

On the basis of unofficial returns, President Truman's party elected 16 senators against five for the Republicans and 188 representatives against 86 for the Republicans.

They had needed a net gain of only four Senate and 31 House seats for control.

Senate Democratic gains included seats now held by Republicans in Oklahoma, West Virginia, Iowa and Illinois. Their House gains included 36 Republican and one American-Labor seats. Only one House Democratic seat went to a Republican, and the GOP had captured no Democratic Senate seats.

12 Senate Seats In Doubt

Of the 12 Senate seats still in doubt, Democrats were leading in eight and Republicans in four. Democrats held margins in Minnesota, Kentucky and Wyoming, where seats now are held by Republicans.

Republicans were not ahead in any states where the Democrats are fighting to keep Senate seats already theirs.

Democrats lost both the House and the Senate in 1946.

At 3:25 a. m. (EST) Democrats had captured 35 Republican and one American-Labor seat in the House and had lost only one of their own for a net gain of 35 seats.

In the 187 seats they already had held they had elected 147 of their own candidates and 40 were in doubt.

Democrats won senatorial contests in Tennessee, Oklahoma and Colorado. The Colorado and Tennessee seats were Democratic in the last Congress, but Republicans had hoped to capture them. The Democratic victory in Oklahoma represented a distinct gain for their party, for the seat previously was filled by a Republican.

13 Demos Elected To Senate

Democratic nominees were ahead in Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, West Virginia and Wyoming for seats now held by Republicans, and in Montana and New Mexico for seats held by their own party.

In addition, Sen. Dworshak, Idaho Republican, was trailing Democrat Bert H. Miller.

In all, 13 Democrats had been elected to the Senate by 2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, including Lyndon Johnson in Texas and J. Melville Broughton in North Carolina.

To add to the Republican woes, Democrats led incumbent Republican senators in Delaware and New Jersey.

The Democrats grabbed a seat from their foes in Oklahoma by electing Robert S. Kerr. They retained another when Rep. Estes Kefauver knocked over his GOP opponent, B. Carroll Reece, former Republican national chairman.

They were well within shooting distance of controlling the Senate, which now has 51 Republicans and 45 Democrats.

In the House races, too, the Democrats chalked up significant gains, although there was no immediate indication they could figure on organizing that body. By 12:30 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) they had achieved a net gain of 11 House seats.

"I can't see anything but victory," he told reporters after dropping his ballot into the voting box in Blue Township's Seventh Precinct this morning.

"Are you going to stay up tonight and listen to the returns?" newspapermen asked him when he arrived at the polls.

"I doubt it," he said with a smile. "I think I'll go to bed early. You won't know anything until tomorrow."

As he waited to drop his ballot into the box the gymnasium was alive with photographers and newsreel cameramen. Mr. Truman was asked, "How does it look to you?"

"I can't see anything but victory," he replied.

"Did you vote it straight, Mr. President?"

"What do you think?" he said, "of course." He had followed his own advice to the voters and voted the party ticket.

"I'm the sort that says as I do and as I say," he remarked, grinning.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey calmly awaited the people's verdict in the presidential election today after he and Mrs. Dewey voted and he chuckled:

"That's two votes we've got, anyhow."

The Republican nominee made the remark as his attractive wife came out of the balloting booth at P. S. School 18, a few blocks from their legal residence at the Hotel Roosevelt.

A few minutes earlier, at 12:20 p. m. (EST), the New York Governor had stepped behind the curtain, pulled the voting machine lever and cast his own ballot.

He was in and out in about five seconds.

Brownell said also there were indications of a record popular vote and that the GOP was counting on that to "insure retention of Republican control of the Senate by at least our present margin" of six seats.

Democrats Elect Eight Governors And GOP Three

Republicans Unset In Ohio And Illinois

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—(Wednesday) — (AP) — Democrats elected eight governors, including Ohio, early today while Republicans had seated but three.

Ballots Are Reported Burned In S. Carolina

ANDERSON, S. C., Nov. 2. (AP)—The Anderson Daily Mail said ballots of all parties were burned today at one Anderson precinct after election managers decided to move the polling place across the street.

The newspaper quoted R. L. Lee, an election manager, as saying he burned the ballots after Election Commissioner Frank Hamlin told him they could not be moved to the new location. Hamlin issued an order several days ago saying it was not the duty or responsibility of election managers to provide or distribute ballots.

The poll was delayed in opening until shortly before noon because no ballots were available. Two hours after opening, the county ticket and the national Democratic (Truman) ballots were the only ones available.

Rep. Marcantonio Wins Bid For Seventh Term

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (Wednesday) (AP)—Rep. Vito Marantonio, veteran American Labor Party congressman, early today won his bid for a seventh term.

He got 35,937 votes in the 18th Congressional District on the upper east side of Manhattan to 31,482 for John Ellis, his Republican foe, and 31,184 for John Morrissey, Democrat.

Neely And Truman Score West Virginia Victories

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 3 (Wednesday) (AP) — West Virginia, where the coal miners came out by the thousands to vote, took away a Republican seat and handed its eight electoral votes to President Truman in yesterday's balloting.

With half the state's 2,785 precincts reported early today, all statewide Democratic candidates had seemingly insurmountable leads. The Democratic trend became evident at the start of tabulations and was not headed.

Matthew M. Neely, 73-year-old former senator, former governor and former congressman, was headed back to the seat he held three times before. It was turnabout for the veteran campaigner. Sen. Chapman Revercomb, Republican, defeated him in 1942.

In 1,402 precincts Neely had corralled a total of 226,148 votes to 166,947 for Revercomb. Six years ago Neely lost by 48,771 votes.

Okey L. Patteson, Democratic nominee for governor, enjoyed much the same ratio as the rest, polling 225,802 in 1,398 precincts to 167,124 for Herbert Boreman.

All six Democratic congressional nominees were in the lead.

The United Mine Workers of America, who came out strongly against Revercomb, turned out a heavy vote in the coal fields and their ballots were scoring in the counting for Neely.

The UMW leaders also asked the 120,000 miners to scratch their tickets and vote for Thomas E. Dewey but there was little to indicate that they had.

Still Is Chance Neither Will Get Clear Majority

[By The Associated Press]

President Harry S. Truman, the man who wouldn't say die, led Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today in one of the most astounding presidential elections of United States history.

The contest was far from over, but the man from Missouri whom the pollsters marked off as licked months ago, clung doggedly to a majority of the electoral votes.

At 4 a. m. (EST) Mr. Truman was leading in 28 states with 292 electoral votes, whereas Dewey was ahead in 16 states with 201. Needed for election: 266.

And the President's margin over Dewey in the popular tally was 1,131,000 with some 28,000,000 of an expected 50,000,000 or more ballots tabulated.

Amazingly, the Democrats swept into position to control both Senate and House of the 81st Congress—provided they suffer no upsets in the tabulations yet to come. And at this point the trend was for, not against, the administration party.

Neither the presidential struggle nor the congressional fight had been finally decided, but the mounting flood of the ballots had cast up enough surprises to keep the tongues of the experts wagging for months, if not years.

Dewey Wins N. Y., Pa.

As expected, Dewey captured the massive electoral tallies of New York and Pennsylvania, but as was distinctly not expected, Truman rolled into the lead in such states as Ohio, Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

Whereas Dewey's electoral total was built, by and large, on the votes of great, populous states, Truman swept into his column, at least tentatively, a lot of little and medium-sized ones.

And Truman would have been still further in the van, had it not been for the States' Rights bolters in Dixie. Their standard bearer, Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, carried his own state of South Carolina, plus Alabama and Mississippi. He was ahead, too, in Louisiana.

That spelled a possible total of 38 electoral votes.

Gales Pound Two Disabled Ships

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Nov. 2 (AP)—Two disabled ships, with crews of 90 or more men aboard, were tossed about today as gale winds lashed Gulf of Alaska waters. Coast Guard craft rushed to their aid.

The storm ranged several hundred miles south, to Victoria, B. C. Winds raged at 60 miles an hour, with gusts up to 74 miles.

The crews of about 34 men on the navy tanker Mission Santa Cruz, drifting helplessly off Cape Ommaney, and 56 men on the LST-694, disabled southwest of Dixon Entrance, were apparently in no immediate danger, the Coast Guard said.

The Mission Santa Cruz, en route from Gulf ports to Anchorage at Skagway, blew a boiler last week and a cutter accompanied her into safe waters inside Cape Spencer. The oil cargo was discharged onto another tanker and the Navy tug Tillamook took it in tow for Seattle.

The towline broke in the heavy weather, a message to the Coast Guard said, and the line fouled the tug's propellor. Using a secondary rudder, the tug headed for Port Malmesbury for repairs.

The LST-694, en route from San Francisco to Shemya, in the Aleautians, had a disabled starboard engine but was making about four knots toward sheltered waters. The cutter Klamath was diverted to its aid.

Five Believed Killed In Crash Of U. S. Plane

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP)—Five Persons are believed to have been killed and five others seriously injured in the crash of an American transport plane tonight.

A spokesman for the United States Air Force said the transport, a C-47 Dakota en route from Northolt, near London, was coming in for a landing in darkness and rain when it crashed near the Wiesbaden air base.

Ex-Md. Bankers Head Dies

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP)—John B. Kieffer, 76-year-old former president of the Maryland Bankers Association, died of a stroke at his home here last night. He was a native of Hagerstown, Md., and the father of Dr. John S. Kieffer, president of St. Johns College in Annapolis, Md.

Dewey Is Apparent Winner In Maryland

With 1,301 of the state's 1,347 polling places reported, unofficial returns gave the New York Republican 285,687 votes to 276,346 for the President.

Most of the remaining 46 polling places were in areas where Dewey showed strength.

The Republicans claimed the state for Dewey. In 1944, President Roosevelt carried the state by 22,441.

The other three bidders for Maryland's vote trailed far behind. With the same number of polling places reported Progressive Henry Wallace was credited with 8,962 votes; States' Rights Democrat Storm Thurmond had 2,384 write-in votes and Socialist Norman Thomas had 2,305.

The counties gave Dewey his hold on Maryland. President Truman won Baltimore City by more than 23,000 votes, in contrast to the 50,000-odd by which President Roosevelt carried it four years ago.

Maryland also re-elected five incumbent representatives — two Republicans and three Democrats.

The Second congressional seat Rep. Hugh A. Meade (D) lost in the May primaries was captured by State Sen. William P. Bolton, a Baltimore county Democrat.

Thus, Maryland will continue with two Republicans and four Democrats in its congressional delegation.

In other actions, the Maryland electorate:

1—Adopted an amendment to the state constitution barring members of "subversive organizations" from holding state, city or county jobs.

2—Decreed that there shall be an annual session of the Maryland General Assembly, instead of bienniel sessions.

3—Threw out a general assembly act which would have had the effect of ending the term of office of W. Lee Elgin, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

4—Made it easier for Baltimore City to acquire property for slum clearance and off-street parking space.

Close to 600,000 of the state's 864,000 registered voters cast ballots despite a cloudy day that saw rain in some areas.

Pre-election forecasts by Democratic leaders were that President Truman would amass a majority of almost 50,000 votes in Baltimore City and that "The worst we can do in the counties is an 18,000 majority for Dewey."

When it became obvious that President Truman would fail to come up to expectations in Baltimore City, and returns from Montgomery County were heavily in favor of Dewey, Democratic headquarters in Baltimore became almost quiet, and the early air of optimism changed to one of doubt.

No statement had been issued from Democratic headquarters by 2:30 a. m.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

The other night, too full of coffee and conversation to go home, a group of us were discussing candidates for an All-Time, All-Girl football team.

"I move we consider Catherine de' Medici for one of the tackles," said a vaudeville agent who had read a book. "No gal in history ever took more guys out of play."

"How about Helen of Troy for fullback?" a sportswriter suggested. "According to the records, she originated the hidden ball trick."

"I'll buy that," said a police reporter, "and if you want a good money player at center, how about Genevieve Paddleford?"

"Genevieve who?" I asked.

The reporter gave me the look that patronizes. "Paddleford," he said. "The sitting, standing, running, jumping, all-time champ of the gold-diggers."

"Pass the cream," I said, "and tell me about her, dig by dig and clip by clip."

"Well," the newspaperman began, "in 1883 a gal-baby named Margaret Heath McKinney was born of normal parents in a normal town called Kansas City. Her childhood was also normal, except that she only played with boy-dolls, and kept the lads on her block broke buying her jawbreakers."

"Stop making like 'King's Row,'" said the sportswriter, "and tell us what she did as a woman."

"When she was a sweet and mainchancey sixteen," the reporter went on, "she changed her name to Genevieve, married a gent named Toomey and moved to St. Paul. This Toomey was a big railroad man, but within five years he didn't know where his next locomotive was coming from. Genevieve was the kind of dame who would walk into a jewelry store and say, 'Wrap up this counter, please,' and after a while even Minneapolis began bragging about the parties she was throwing in St. Paul. In 1904, Toomey finally yelled 'Ouch!' and divorced her, naming a well-to-do physician as correspondent.

"We next pick up our babe in New York where she did a stint as a chorus girl and where she caught the eye and aye of Ben Teal, a wealthy theatrical producer. In 1906, Mrs. Toomey became Mrs. Teal and forthwith set out to buy her way into society with her husband's money. But unfortunately our little gold-digger got involved in a swanky divorce case, committed perjury and was sent to prison for a year.

"Two months after she was freed, Teal sued her for divorce, naming the maitre d' of one of New York's large hotels. But before the case could be brought to court, Teal died, and Genevieve threw an $8,000 funeral for her dead and double-dealt departed. This sepulchral shindig, of course, was on the cuff, and when the undertaker undertook to collect his bill, Genevieve caught the first train out of town.

"Figuring that where there's Texas there's oil, she went to Galveston, checked into the best hotel and started prospecting for prospects. She let it be noised around that she was the widow of a famous Broadway playwright and composer, and in no time at all had her manicured hooks in an oil-well impressario named Paddleford.

"For five flighty years, Genevieve spent his dough as fast as it came out of the ground, and when Petroleum Pete finally gave her the boot, she packed twenty-one trunks and lit out for Europe. There she traveled from spa to spa, being careful to swindle only the best hotels, and, when she ran out of resorts, she moved on to Asia. In Bombay she married a 14-millionaire named Howells, sweet-talked him into buying her an Egyptian palace, and began working her way through the 14. But the undertaker she'd taken read about the marriage in the New York papers and, being one of those gents who 'believe in live and let live—but not for long,' he sent Howells a complete report on his spendthrift spouse.

"A year later, Genevieve turned up in America again where she lost no time in honeying up to a rich Brooklyn dental manufacturer. They were married on schedule — her schedule, that is—but again the mean old undertaker blew the whistle on her and the marriage was annulled before she could get away with any part of Hubby's bridgework."

"This round-robin must have chewed up quite a few years," the sportswriter said admiringly. "Didn't old age slow Genevieve up?"

"Not so's you could notice it," said the reporter, "although the tooth tycoon was her last husband. For a dozen years after that, she gold-dug and gold-bricked her way around the country, and it was the cops rather than old age that finally stopped her. In 1936, she was arrested in Walla Walla for larceny, and five years later the Maharani of Make passed away peacefully in her cell . . ."

"Case proved," said the vaudeville agent. "Genevieve Paddleford qualifies for center. Now, who else will we put on the team?"

"How about my wife for quarterback?" I said. "Nobody ever moved faster on a wet field than Eleanor Holm."

"Okay," said the sportswriter, "if you'll accept Cleopatra as one of the ends. You can't ignore the gal who intercepted a forward pass and saved the game for Egypt."

"And we mustn't forget Peggy Joyce," said the reporter. "Now there's a girl who . . ."

Seabee Reserves Transferred Here

Cmdr. W. D. Horton, Norfolk, Va., Fifth Naval Reserve Seabee program officer, has announced the transfer of the Naval Reserve Volunteer Seabee Unit 5-7, formerly located at Winchester Va., to the Naval Reserve Training Center here.

The change was effected due to better training facilities here, and due to better location for members of the unit who are situated in an area closer to Cumberland, Cmdr. Horton said.

The transfer will be highlighted by a change of command ceremony when Captain Joseph P. Blundon, CECR, USNR, of Keyser, W. Va., will relieve Commander William F. Bowerman, CECR, USNR, of Berryville, Va., as commanding officer of that unit.

Captain Blundon, credited with being one of the first Seabee officers, entered the Naval Reserve in May, 1942, and was released from active duty July, 1945. In civilian life he is consulting engineer in Keyser.

Cmdr. Horton said that the change of command was effected "because Captain Blundon is situated closer to Cumberland and is therefore better able to handle the details incident to the command.

All former officer and enlisted Seabee personnel in the immediate area are welcome to attend the montnly meetings of Volunteer Seabee Unit 5-7. The date of the first Cumberland meeting will be announced later.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

The other night, too full of coffee and conversation to go home, a group of us were discussing candidates for an All-Time, All-Girl football team.

Billy Rose

"I move we consider Catherine de' Medici for one of the tackles," said a vaudeville agent who had read a book. "No gal in history ever took more guys out of play."

"How about Helen of Troy for fullback?" a sportswriter suggested. "According to the records, she originated the hidden ball trick."

"I'll buy that," said a police reporter, "and if you want a good money player at center, how about Genevieve Paddleford?"

"Genevieve who?" I asked.

The reporter gave me the look that patronizes. "Paddleford," he said. "The sitting, standing, running, jumping, all-time champ of the gold-diggers."

"Pass the cream," I said, "and tell me about her, dig by dig and clip by clip."

"Well," the newspaperman began, "in 1883 a gal-baby named Margaret Heath McKinney was born of normal parents in a normal town called Kansas City. Her childhood was also normal, except that she only played with boy-dolls, and kept the lads on her block broke buying her jawbreakers."

"Stop making like 'King's Row,'" said the sportswriter, "and tell us what she did as a woman."

"When she was a sweet and mainchancey sixteen," the reporter went on, "she changed her name to Genevieve, married a gent named Toomey and moved to St. Paul. This Toomey was a big railroad man, but within five years he didn't know where his next locomotive was coming from. Genevieve was the kind of dame who would walk into a jewelry store and say, 'Wrap up this counter, please,' and after a while even Minneapolis began bragging about the parties she was throwing in St. Paul. In 1904, Toomey finally yelled 'Ouch!' and divorced her, naming a well-to-do physician as correspondent.

"We next pick up our babe in New York where she did a stint as a chorus girl and where she caught the eye and aye of Ben Teal, a wealthy theatrical producer. In 1906, Mrs. Toomey became Mrs. Teal and forthwith set out to buy her way into society with her husband's money. But unfortunately our little gold-digger got involved in a swanky divorce case, committed perjury and was sent to prison for a year.

"Two months after she was freed, Teal sued her for divorce, naming the maitre d' of one of New York's large hotels. But before the case could be brought to court, Teal died, and Genevieve threw an $8,000 funeral for her dead and double-dealt departed. This sepulchral shindig, of course, was on the cuff, and when the undertaker undertook to collect his bill, Genevieve caught the first train out of town.

"Figuring that where there's Texas there's oil, she went to Galveston, checked into the best hotel and started prospecting for prospects. She let it be noised around that she was the widow of a famous Broadway playwright and composer, and in no time at all had her manicured hooks in an oil-well impressario named Paddleford.

"For five flighty years, Genevieve spent his dough as fast as it came out of the ground, and when Petroleum Pete finally gave her the boot, she packed twenty-one trunks and lit out for Europe. There she traveled from spa to spa, being careful to swindle only the best hotels, and, when she ran out of resorts, she moved on to Asia. In Bombay she married a 14-millionaire named Howells, sweet-talked him into buying her an Egyptian palace, and began working her way through the 14. But the undertaker she'd taken read about the marriage in the New York papers and, being one of those gents who 'believe in live and let live—but not for long,' he sent Howells a complete report on his spendthrift spouse.

"A year later, Genevieve turned up in America again where she lost no time in honeying up to a rich Brooklyn dental manufacturer. They were married on schedule — her schedule, that is—but again the mean old undertaker blew the whistle on her and the marriage was annulled before she could get away with any part of Hubby's bridgework."

"This round-robin must have chewed up quite a few years," the sportswriter said admiringly. "Didn't old age slow Genevieve up?"

"Not so's you could notice it," said the reporter, "although the tooth tycoon was her last husband. For a dozen years after that, she gold-dug and gold-bricked her way around the country, and it was the cops rather than old age that finally stopped her. In 1936, she was arrested in Walla Walla for larceny, and five years later the Maharani of Make passed away peacefully in her cell . . ."

"Case proved," said the vaudeville agent. "Genevieve Paddleford qualifies for center. Now, who else will we put on the team?"

"How about my wife for quarterback?" I said. "Nobody ever moved faster on a wet field than Eleanor Holm."

"Okay," said the sportswriter, "if you'll accept Cleopatra as one of the ends. You can't ignore the gal who intercepted a forward pass and saved the game for Egypt."

"And we mustn't forget Peggy Joyce," said the reporter. "Now there's a girl who . . ."

Seabee Reserves Transferred Here

Cmdr. W. D. Horton, Norfolk, Va., Fifth Naval Reserve Seabee program officer, has announced the transfer of the Naval Reserve Volunteer Seabee Unit 5-7, formerly located at Winchester Va., to the Naval Reserve Training Center here.

The change was effected due to better training facilities here, and due to better location for members of the unit who are situated in an area closer to Cumberland, Cmdr. Horton said.

The transfer will be highlighted by a change of command ceremony when Captain Joseph P. Blundon, CECR, USNR, of Keyser, W. Va., will relieve Commander William F. Bowerman, CECR, USNR, of Berryville, Va., as commanding officer of that unit.

Captain Blundon, credited with being one of the first Seabee officers, entered the Naval Reserve in May, 1942, and was released from active duty July, 1945. In civilian life he is consulting engineer in Keyser.

Cmdr. Horton said that the change of command was effected "because Captain Blundon is situated closer to Cumberland and is therefore better able to handle the details incident to the command.

All former officer and enlisted Seabee personnel in the immediate area are welcome to attend the monthly meetings of Volunteer Seabee Unit 5-7. The date of the first Cumberland meeting will be announced later.

Community-Backed Halloween Mardi Gras Is Vandalism Cure

It is contended that if Halloween vandalism is ever to be banished it will have to be brought about by a community-supported Mardi Gras in observance of the season of spooks, ghosts and gobblins. The idea began to bear fruit this year in Cumberland. The results were such as to give encouragement to those who arranged the city-wide celebration, and they are satisfied that they may look forward to bigger ones in the years ahead.

The start toward this goal was made Monday night. Of course, it wasn't of such proportions as to cause one to toss his hat in the air in jubilation, but the response of masquaraders was such as to furnish proof that funsters are hungry for the opportunity to parade and show-off their makeup and costumes in a pre-arranged affair. The interest displayed by citizens in such an enterprise was attested by the throng that lined sidewalks to witness the rebirth of an innovation which had long been neglected.

That staged Halloween events have a tendency to reduce vandalism and serious mischief was recognized a year ago when the North End Playground Association held its first parade for children. Hundreds participated and the open-air party which followed kept the youngsters so well entertained, and the gifts of candy, apples and cookies satisfied their appetite for the traditional Halloween treats to such a degree that they lost their desire to go in for the hoodlum tactics in that section of the city. It also reduced the "trick or treat" excursions through neighborhoods. The same organization repeated the parade this year and the results were so gratifying as to leave no doubt but that it will become an annual fixture.

There is nothing in the original conception of celebrating Halloween that encourages vandalism, hoodlumism and malicious destruction of property. Such things cannot be tolerated in a law-abiding community. Many of those who enjoy "dressing up" and engaging in innocent fun are often heard deploring the rowdyism practiced by some. They brand willful destruction of property and other acts of hoodlumism as "dowdy, old-fashioned and corny."

Given the opportunity to engage in more elevating celebrations, these acts of wrong-doing can, we venture to say, be reduced to such an extent that in time they will disappear entirely. This has been the experience of Hagerstown, the closest place to Cumberland where elaborate parades and a Mardi Gras are held yearly. They have grown to such proportions as to attract masquaders and visitors to the Hub City from far and near.

There is no reason why Cumberland cannot match or surpass our Washington county neighbor. The start made this year under the sponsorship of Voiture, Society of 40 and 8 organization holds every promise for such an accomplishment. If planned far enough in advance of Halloween, next year's observance may very well be made one of Cumberland's outstanding festivals.

The High Cost Of Election Campaigning

The preliminary reports required by law 10 days before election show that a total of $4,500,000 has been spent by leading political parties in the campaign to date. The Republicans had spent $1,706,370 and the Democrats $1,503,709. The Progressives, surprisingly, had laid out $1,101,261 for Henry Wallace, which looks like money gone down the drain. Henry is not expected to receive a single electoral vote, whereas the State's Rights Democrats, who have spent less than $100,000 are counted on to carry four states.

The total of reported campaign spending was expected to exceed $6,000,000 before the ballots were counted. This, of course, would be only a fraction of the actual expenditure. The figures from Washington do not include anything contributed by local and state committees, or by individual contestants. Federal law forbids any committee, other than state or local ones, to spend more than $3,000,000 in any calendar year. But in 1944 the Democrats and Republicans had 289 separate committees.

Way back in '36 a Senate committee learned of campaign expenditures totalling $24,000,000. In 1944 another committee tracked down expenditures of $23,000,000, but this did not include anything spent for House candidates, or by local and county committees, or by many "independent" groups. Some estimates put the actual 1944 campaign cost at around $50,000,000. It may be more than that in 1948, when the dollar buys so much less. Probably no one will ever know how much is spent this year.

The Corrupt Practices Act was designed partly to prevent wealthy "angels" from giving their man an unfair advantage. But times have changed, with the growth and increasing wealth and power of labor organizations.

The New "Voice" Of U. S. Penetrates The Iron Curtain

A few short months ago the State Department's "Voice of America" program was not something the country could be proud of. The Government's propaganda outlet to foreign countries was, in many respects, anything but American. It was all too often leftist, biased and, sometimes, downright insulting to the nation it was supposed to be selling abroad.

The furor raised in Congress and elsewhere over the programs has apparently borne fruit. The "Voice of America" seems to be going out of its way to be neutral. Currently it is treating the campaign with fairness, allowing equal time to mention of the two major candidates, and not ignoring Henry Wallace and Strom Thurmond. Most surprising, in view of its former record, is its frank statement acknowledging that Governor Dewey seems to be leading President Truman, although it guardedly added that anything can happen in an American political race.

No one can take offense at the new "Voice." This is just the kind of program the broadcast should be putting on the air. Straight facts, sprinkled even with criticism of the Government, as is the case in airing the Wallace views, will do more to convince listeners abroad of the advantages of democracy and the soundness of the American position than all the sugar-coating in the world.

And, to top it all off, the Christian Monitor announces it has learned from authentic sources that the American "Voice" has penetrated the Iron Curtain.

Food Essential But Not Magical

A day rarely passes in the life of a busy physician when he is not asked by some one if diet will cure what ails him. Much of this stems from the fact that we North Americans have been made food-conscious and many of us have been led to believe that there is no limit to its magic power. From a scientific standpoint, we know that eating properly is a wonderful attribute to health and that some disorders require special menus in conjunction with other treatment. But beyond these facts, little more can be said.

Dr. Van Dellen

We are not trying to detract from the importance of food but are merely stressing the value of being sensible. For every person who has extremely poor eating habits, another can be found who believes that the sun rises and sets on his "vittles" and that all the evils and illnesses of the world can be traced to one type of edible or another.

There is always a man or woman who travels to a distant land and comes back convinced that rice, as an illustration, is the reason why Chinese do not have high blood pressure; or that a certain Indian tribe is healthy and peaceful because their vegetables and fields are fertilized in a certain way. Food is given the credit, whereas heredity, cleanliness, sanitation, and the type of nervous system are tossed to the winds.

Physicians have long made a study of nutrition and at the present time, more extensive research is being carried on than ever before. Many of our best medicos no longer prescribe special diets unless there is a given reason for doing so. Victims of diabetes are now allowed to consume more carbohydrates; and, in kidney trouble, more protein is permitted. Patients with fever are not starved but fed as much as they want; in this way, strength is maintained and recovery is faster.

One of the best editorials on this subject was written by Cornell in the American Journal of Digestive Diseases. He mentions some of the unexplainable facts in diet. There are so many exceptions to the rule that it is hard to know what to believe. In a certain section of Canada, for example, the best people live on salt pork, potatoes, and maple sirup all winter long. This bill-of-fare is practically devoid of vitamins except for C yet the inhabitants are vigorous even in their late seventies.

He also mentions an experience with a woman who consulted him because of a minor ailment. She appeared to be 35 years of age and he was impressed by her beauty, vitality, and youth but was dumbfounded when he discovered that she was actually 65. He felt that this was his golden opportunity to discover the miracle which defied the laws of nature. When he inquired as to the kind of food she ate customarily, she replied, "For twenty years I have cared for nothing at all except bread and butter and tea, and have eaten nothing else at all." We cannot subscribe to this regimen but it shows how little we really know.

Your sister is more nearly correct. One case was reported of a woman who carried an ossified fetus for 60 years. Numerous instances are on record of retention of a fetus for from several months to 46 years.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Dewey Shakeup To Wake Up Washington; Teamwork and Tenacity Will Feature New Administration Under Republican President; Some Appointments

By DREW PEARSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 — The men around Dewey who will take over the White House 86 days from today are an exciting, hard-working, close-knit clique who function with almost too much perfection and are loaded with calculated coordination. Here is the lineup:

NO. 1 MAN—On the White House staff will be cherub-faced Paul Lockwood, the 6-foot, 4-inch personal secretary to the new Chief Executive, who saw a dream that started 14 years ago become a fact this week when his boy Tom took over.

Lockwood will become secretary to the President. He will bring to Washington a couple of dozen pipes that he puffs at all hours, a habit of working late, sleeping hardly at all, a love of good swing-music, and the greatest fund of amusing stories since Paul Porter left the White House entourage. Lockwood is a bachelor, never found time to get married. He was too busy promoting Tom Dewey for President.

PRESS SECRETARY—Right behind Lockwood will be Jim Hagerty, 39-year-old ex-political writer of the New York Times. Hagerty didn't always love Dewey. As recently as 1942, he and Dewey said a lot of unprintable things about each other both publicly and privately, particularly when Dewey was up to his old trick of denying newspapermen's stories—a habit he hasn't completely forgotten. Hagerty has a simple formula for getting along with the press—trying to get the truth and letting the chips fall where they may. On the whole he sticks to it, though, being human, he has sometimes strayed. Witness his denial of Dewey's remarks on teachers at the Governors' conference last summer.

PERSONAL SECRETARY — Another member of the White House staff will be tiny Lillian Rosse, Dewey's perennially tired-looking 99-pound blonde confidential secretary. A bombshell full of energy, Miss Rosse has been with Dewey for 14 years and probably knows more about him and how he got to the presidency than he does himself.

FINANCE EXPERT — Is ruddy-jawed Elliott Bell, able New York State superintendent of banks and ex-New York Times writer. Dewey and Bell met as law students at Columbia. Dewey, then recently married, enjoyed the Bohemian atmosphere of the Bells' New York apartment, and in 1939 took Bell on as his chief ghost writer. After Dewey was defeated at the Philadelphia 1940 convention, Bell worked for Wendell Willkie, later joined the editorial board of the New York Times.

In 1942 when Dewey decided to run for Governor, he appealed to Bell to resign from the Times to work on his campaign, but Bell refused. Finally he consented to work part time on the campaign, wrote editorials in the daytime and speeches for Dewey until 3 a. m. When the election was over, Dewey asked Bell to become State Superintendent of banks. Despite a $25,000 a year post with the Times, Bell accepted. He has been with Dewey ever since.

LEGAL ADVISOR — Whip-smart young Charles D. Breitel has been counsel to Governor Dewey in Albany since 1943, is expected to have the same job with Dewey that Sam Rosenman had with Roosevelt and Clark Clifford with Truman. Breitel became assistant district attorney on Dewey's staff in the gangbusting days, became his law partner when he left the D. A.'s office in 1941, has an A-1 concept of civil liberties, a steel-trap mind, believes in throwing tough legal problems in to the courts at once rather than letting administrative agencies usurp judicial powers. Breitel is another burner of the midnight oil, will be found at his desk rather than swank dinner parties when the moon comes over the Potomac.

BUDGET EXPERT—Is 39-year-old John E. Burton, New York State budget director, who, unlike Virginia's Senator Byrd, doesn't believe that government expenses can be reduced merely by the traditional expedient of firing bureaucrats.

TAX EXPERT—Alger B. Chapman, head of Dewey's tax commission, is a former partner in the super-lush Washington law firm of Alvord and Alvord, which has represented the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and has tried to persuade Congress to ease taxes for the high-bracket boys. However, Chapman broke with the Alvord firm and is not likely to be influenced by them in writing future tax laws in Washington.

SUPER-PUBLIC RELATIONS—Silken-voiced Harold Keller, who holds the title of Commissioner of Commerce at Albany, will probably handle high-level public relations for the new administration. Keller is a member of the original Dewey team. When Dewey was a young racket-buster in New York, Keller, a New York Criminal reporter and political writer, became press agent for the Dewey combine, helped mastermind the thousands of screaming black headlines that made Dewey a national figure.

PATRONAGE BOSS — Will be snowy-haired, cigar-chewing Ed Jaeckle, who, more than any member of the Dewey team, looks like a professional politician. Kindly, shrewd, with an amazing ability to remember names, Jaeckle resembles Roosevelt's Jim Farley. Jaeckle rowed with Dewey after the 1944 campaign, was virtually dropped from the organization, but came back shortly after Dewey was elected Governor. Jaeckle was largely responsible for amassing the powerful force of delegates Dewey took with him into the Republican convention at Philadelphia.

WOMEN BRAIN-TRUSTERS—Dewey also has two able women in his top entourage. Chicago-born Mrs. Charles W. Weis, Jr., Republican national committeewoman for New York, will wind up in the Dewey cabinet in a new post—Secretary of Social Security. Mrs. Weis, known to intimates as "Judy," is attractive, shy about her age, looks to be on the younger side of 40, but has been married 27 years.

Also active on the Dewey team is Jane Todd, vice-chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, deputy commissioner of commerce.

BACKSTAGE ARRANGER—One of the smoothest members of the Dewey team now occupies an office far removed from the White House—Hamilton Gaddis, the town clerk of Hempstead, L. I., and advance man for all Dewey campaigns. Suave and mustached, Gaddis looks like a dilettante, carries a portable speaker's stand with microphones attached. This special-sized stand has prevented the new president from being hidden behind more elaborate rostrums; was flown to every Dewey speech in advance. Gaddis also acts as No. 1 gumshoe boy for Dewey in checking patronage seekers, has had the whole New York State Police at his disposal and has used them generously.

Man Who Refused To Become President Worth Listening To

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

A man who refuses to be President of the United States when he could have been elected on either ticket is worth listening to. There are not many! That man is Eisenhower. And when such a man assumes the presidency of a great university, he is certain to express the basic thinking of his lifetime.

Eisenhower's address on his inauguration as head of Columbia University on October 12, was drowned out by the noise of smaller men. Only a few paragraphs were reported. It should be read widely, especially in our schools and colleges. It was the voice of an American.

In Strategic Position

Whether the turn of the political wheel will again call on him to assume public office, I do not know. But he is in a strategic position today. For, it is in our colleges that a higher percentage of radicals are gnawing at the foundations of American freedom than in any other place. For example, in a New Hampshire college town—with a tax-supported college, at that—out of 60 persons who endorsed Henry A. Wallace, 23 were members of the college faculty.

But here are words from the man who commanded our youth on blood-soaked soil. As he spoke, the General must have had in mind those who made the final sacrifice that their countrymen might be free.

"Government ownership or control of property is not to be decided principally because of the historic inefficiency of governmental management of productive enterprises; its real threat rests in the fact that . . . the final concentration of ownership in the hands of government gives to it, in all practical effects, absolute power over our lives.

"When shallow critics denounce the profit move inherent in our system of private enterprise, they ignore the fact that is is an economic support of every human right we possess and that without it, all rights would soon disappear.

Standard for Teachers

"Macaulay, the English historian . . . wrote in 1857: 'Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand; or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by barbarians in the twentieth century as the Roman Empire was in the fifth; with this difference, that the Huns and Vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire came from without and that your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own country by your own institutions.'

"From the school at the crossroads to a university as great as Columbia, general education for citizenship must be the common and first purpose of them all.

"The teacher must support the sum total of the principles which, among other things, guarantees freedom for all."

If you want to know something about this man when he was a boy, read "Personal Episode," reprinted from Guideposts in the October issue of Reader's Digest.

Here is a standard for our teachers who would preserve that free world and hallowed word—AMERICA!

Gen. Bradley Urges Patience In This Of Russian Tension

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—Amid all the speechmaking of the last few weeks, there was one address which was not made by a political leader or candidate but which ranks as possibly one of the finest public utterances of the year. It was delivered last Thursday in Chicago by the chief of staff of the United States Army, Gen. Omar N. Bradley. It was on the subject of war and peace.

Coming as they do from a military man, the words are all the more significant. For General Bradley has described the present era of tension in relations with Russia in a manner calculated to allay hysteria and the passions or irritations that sometimes bring on war.

"It is not my business," he said, "to speculate either on the possibility of peace or war. Peace is always possible while we have recourse to discussion, compromise and agreement within a council chamber of nations. And there have already been too many morbid predictions of war between the East and the West. These predictions can do nothing but excite suspicion, fear and distrust. They succeed only in making the difficult task of negotiation a more elusive one. And they magnify the danger of war."

Decries Those Who See War

After describing the need for a stable, long-range military policy in America as a measure of prevention, General Bradley went on to decry those who really feel war must come and had better come soon. He said:

"Since the development of new air weapons, enthusiasts have oversimplified the task of fighting a war. Convinced by their own illusions that a war might be won in days, at a safe and comfortable bomber range, they give reckless courage to those fools who could say, 'if war is to come, then let it come now.'

"When we contemplate the terrible prospect of another conflict in our time, we who survived this last one in well-fed comfort, warmth, and wealth, must face the bitter prospect of deprivation, fear, and death. War is no longer a foreign affair; its weapons have invaded our homes. A struggle between two great powers might readily last for many years and leave each of them stricken to death. If we are deceived into taking war lightly and we thus lightly juggle its risks, the American people will flirt with disaster.

"More than anything else, we shall need patience in this era of tension. For it is unlikely we shall find a quick or easy way out. We dare not minimize the seriousness of this contest nor dare we exaggerate it and give way to frenzy.

"That it is serious, no sober person would dare deny. Yet while we speculate on the probabilities of war, we must not lose sight of the possibilities for peace. We in the Army are concerned; but certainly we are not alarmed. The draft is part of our effort to prevent war; it is not mobilization to fight.

"Like many of you, I have hope for agreement—not necessarily in days, weeks, or months. But perhaps in years, or even in decades.

"Therefore, while this tension is disagreeable and trying to those who clamor for peace, it is vastly preferable to war. For it leaves open a door to the hope that we may somehow, sometime, find a solution."

Tension Period Preferable

These words do not sound like those of a soldier—they sound as if they had come from a civilian in the field of diplomacy. For here is a tactful utterance and one that at the same time carries conviction. It may not persuade all the hotheads who are carelessly predicting certain war or who are rejecting every form of negotiation as "compromise" or "appeasement" and gradually narrowing the area of agreement so that war becomes more and more their theory of a logical solution.

A period of tension, as General Bradley says, is far preferable to war. The art of negotiation calls for restraint and patience but mostly it calls for common sense and objectivity. The controversy over the Berlin blockade has become clouded with technicalities and narrow points of pride. It can be resolved, but it never will be as long as there is superficiality and careless statements by public officials on both sides.

Negotiation with Russia has its drawbacks, and there are many people who are arguing that agreement is impossible—which is but another way of saying that only war can settle the issue. The broader point of view requires a painstaking examination of the points in dispute in an unremitting effort to find a basis for settlement. Nobody has stated better than General Bradley the case for self-restraint and patience and for continued negotiation.

Ben Gitlow's Book

EVEN SO WISE a man as William McFee can write a para- such as this:

"Max Eastman, ex-editor of The Masses and now on Reader's Digest, mentions Gitlow's 'non-Bolshevik courage.' Far be it from us to disparage the lost sheep who return, weary and footsore, from the Muscovite mountains, but this praise of one ex-radical by another becomes tiresome. It is becoming a regular profession, well paid too, to renounce Communism and then write a book about it."

The reference is to Benjamin important book, "The Whole of Their Lives," one of the best analyses of the psychology of the Communists that has ever been written. True, Ben Gitlow was once a leader of the Communist movement, not only of America, but of the world. McFee, in his review, wonders how Gitlow knows what he says. He wants confirmation. Anyone familiar with the history of the Communist movement would acknowledge Gitlow as a primary and reliable source. Much that he writes about he lived.

However, what McFee says in effect is that we must distrust all ex-radicals; we must assume that they switch for the money in it. He does not believe in the admission of error, or penitence, in the burning zeal of the convert. He does not forgive. Were we to accept his view, this would indeed be a tough world; the sinner would have to continue to sin lest a cynic suspect his virtue as being the product of lust. No truth could be spoken lest one be suspected of being sanctimonious.

Actually the case of Ben Gitlow is one of hard and bitter suffering and sacrifice for what he believes to be the truth. I have known Gitlow intimately. I have marveled at his courage and his strength in avoiding benefits from his apostasy.

While he and his family were living in dingy quarters, he saw many of his former colleagues, men who could make every twist and turn of the Stalinist line, bask in the sun of White House favors; he saw many of them—still members of the party—rise to high rank in the Federal Government, in Hollywood, in newspapers and magazines, in our universities, in some instances even in business.

His first book, "I Confess," is a textbook on the Communist movement and its methods. This book brought him $500 plus $3,500 from the Cosmopolitan magazine for the serial rights, which, Mr. McFee notwithstanding, is not big pay for leaving the Communist Party. I know of Communist writers who receive more than that for a single story from a so-called capitalist magazine in which they advocate the party line.

After he wrote that book, as was customary in those days, he was boycotted by the left-wing editors of magazines and he found it difficult to get lecture work. Practically every opponent of the Communists in the 1930's suffered from similar boycotts. In fact, as recently as last winter, I knew of editors turning down anti-Communist, anti-Russian articles for "capitalist" magazines as reactionary, Red-baiting and elusive.

Gitlow one day came to see me and said that he had taken a job at $20 a week making some kind of electrical appliance. Gitlow is one of the three or four best informed men on Communism in America, an authority on both theory and practice, but because he told the truth in "I Confess," he was boycotted and condemned. During the war, instead of keeping his government on the qui vive, he worked at menial tasks in a shipyard.

For 20 years Gitlow has been living in this manner while fighting Communism tooth and nail. One of his most recent and valued achievements is the organization with Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of the American Jewish League Against Communism, something that needed doing long ago.

Now he has written a new book, "The Whole Of Their Lives," in which he tells the story of the men who made this movement which has set out to conquer the world—and which in a large measure is succeeding because liberals and ostritches are incapable of understanding its conspiratorial and wicked nature. And they denounce Benjamin Gitlow because he is an ex-radical. St. Paul, be it remembered, was an ex-Pharisee.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Outdoing The Other Fellow

When you come into New York Harbor from the sea, you are met with a marvelous sight—probably one of the most inspiring of any in the world of like nature.

The great buildings seem to leap into the air and a grave dignity abounds about the crown of this incomparable city.

And yet, when I walk the streets of this marvel of cities, I wonder about the wisdom of these great buildings, some of which reach for over a thousand feet toward the sky. In other cities I see the same mad competition to "have the highest building in town."

On it goes. A bigger steamship than the other fellow's, a bigger plane, a bigger battleship. Just a little while ago we finished our biggest war—and the world is strewn with wreckage which a thousand years will not be able to obliterate.

To beat the other fellow! Why do we not strive to improve on the other fellow, to render a more helpful service, to try to enlarge his lot and chance in the world? What is gained when we have outdone the other fellow along some material line? Hardly more than to have narrowed our own soul and shriveled our heart.

It seems to me that the world is improving on almost everything, except in its knowledge as to how to live. And that's the most important task in life!

Combinations, mergers, machine production—what are they all going to lead us to? In the cities homes are fast disappearing for mere places in which to sleep and take meals. The churches are being emptied. It appears to me that no age ever needed the church as this one of ours does. Not anything sectarian—but a place of peace, rest, beautiful music and talks by men in the pulpit who know all about the hunger condition of people's hearts.

The world is hungry. It craves spiritual food much more, even, than it does food for the physical body. But there must be a reduction to the human equation. We can never arrive at any happy state of being by making our god material success and our measure of triumph that of beating out someone else.

Let the cynic shrug his shoulder and smile at the Golden Rule—it, nevertheless, remains as the corner stone to any success or happiness.

Community-Backed Halloween Mardi Gras Is Vandalism Cure

It is contended that if Halloween vandalism is ever to be banished it will have to be brought about by a community-supported Mardi Gras in observance of the season of spooks, ghosts and gobblins. The idea began to bear fruit this year in Cumberland. The results were such as to give encouragement to those who arranged the city-wide celebration, and they are satisfied that they may look forward to bigger ones in the years ahead.

The start toward this goal was made Monday night. Of course, it wasn't of such proportions as to cause one to toss his hat in the air in jubilation, but the response of masquaraders was such as to furnish proof that funsters are hungry for the opportunity to parade and show-off their makeup and costumes in a pre-arranged affair. The interest displayed by citizens in such an enterprise was attested by the throng that lined sidewalks to witness the rebirth of an innovation which had long been neglected.

That staged Halloween events have a tendency to reduce vandalism and serious mischief was recognized a year ago when the North End Playground Association held its first parade for children. Hundreds participated and the open-air party which followed kept the youngsters so well entertained, and the gifts of candy, apples and cookies satisfied their appetite for the traditional Halloween treats to such a degree that they lost their desire to go in for the hoodlum tactics in that section of the city. It also reduced the "trick or treat" excursions through neighborhoods. The same organization repeated the parade this year and the results were so gratifying as to leave no doubt but that it will become an annual fixture.

There is nothing in the original conception of celebrating Halloween that encourages vandalism, hoodlumism and malicious destruction of property. Such things cannot be tolerated in a law-abiding community. Many of those who enjoy "dressing up" and engaging in innocent fun are often heard deploring the rowdyism practiced by some. They brand willful destruction of property and other acts of hoodlumism as "dowdy, old-fashioned and corny."

Given the opportunity to engage in more elevating celebrations, these acts of wrong-doing can, we venture to say, be reduced to such an extent that in time they will disappear entirely. This has been the experience of Hagerstown, the closest place to Cumberland where elaborate parades and a Mardi Gras are held yearly. They have grown to such proportions as to attract masquaders and visitors to the Hub City from far and near.

There is no reason why Cumberland cannot match or surpass our Washington county neighbor. The start made this year under the sponsorship of Voiture, Society of 40 and 8 organization holds every promise for such an accomplishment. If planned far enough in advance of Halloween, next year's observance may very well be made one of Cumberland's outstanding festivals.

The High Cost Of Election Campaigning

The preliminary reports required by law 10 days before election show that a total of $4,500,000 has been spent by leading political parties in the campaign to date. The Republicans had spent $1,706,370 and the Democrats $1,503,709. The Progressives, surprisingly, had laid out $1,101,261 for Henry Wallace, which looks like money gone down the drain. Henry is not expected to receive a single electoral vote, whereas the State's Rights Democrats, who have spent less than $100,000 are counted on to carry four states.

The total of reported campaign spending was expected to exceed $6,000,000 before the ballots were counted. This, of course, would be only a fraction of the actual expenditure. The figures from Washington do not include anything contributed by local and state committees, or by individual contestants. Federal law forbids any committee, other than state or local ones, to spend more than $3,000,000 in any calendar year. But in 1944 the Democrats and Republicans had 289 separate committees.

Way back in '36 a Senate committee learned of campaign expenditures totalling $24,000,000. In 1944 another committee tracked down expenditures of $23,000,000, but this did not include anything spent for House candidates, or by local and county committees, or by many "independent" groups. Some estimates put the actual 1944 campaign cost at around $50,000,000. It may be more than that in 1948, when the dollar buys so much less. Probably no one will ever know how much is spent this year.

The Corrupt Practices Act was designed partly to prevent wealthy "angels" from giving their man an unfair advantage. But times have changed, with the growth and increasing wealth and power of labor organizations.

The New "Voice" Of U. S. Penetrates The Iron Curtain

A few short months ago the State Department's "Voice of America" program was not something the country could be proud of. The Government's propaganda outlet to foreign countries was, in many respects, anything but American. It was all too often leftist, biased and, sometimes, downright insulting to the nation it was supposed to be selling abroad.

The furor raised in Congress and elsewhere over the programs has apparently borne fruit. The "Voice of America" seems to be going out of its way to be neutral. Currently it is treating the campaign with fairness, allowing equal time to mention of the two major candidates, and not ignoring Henry Wallace and Strom Thurmond. Most surprising, in view of its former record, is its frank statement acknowledging that Governor Dewey seems to be leading President Truman, although it guardedly added that anything can happen in an American political race.

No one can take offense at the new "Voice." This is just the kind of program the broadcast should be putting on the air. Straight facts, sprinkled even with criticism of the Government, as is the case in airing the Wallace views, will do more to convince listeners abroad of the advantages of democracy and the soundness of the American position than all the sugar-coating in the world.

And, to top it all off, the Christian Monitor announces it has learned from authentic sources that the American "Voice" has penetrated the Iron Curtain.

Food Essential But Not Magical

A day rarely passes in the life of a busy physician when he is not asked by some one if diet will cure what ails him. Much of this stems from the fact that we North Americans have been made food-conscious and many of us have been led to believe that there is no limit to its magic power. From a scientific standpoint, we know that eating properly is a wonderful attribute to health and that some disorders require special menus in conjunction with other treatment. But beyond these facts, little more can be said.

Dr. Van Dellen

We are not trying to detract from the importance of food but are merely stressing the value of being sensible. For every person who has extremely poor eating habits, another can be found who believes that the sun rises and sets on his "vittles" and that all the evils and illnesses of the world can be traced to one type of edible or another.

There is always a man or woman who travels to a distant land and comes back convinced that rice, as an illustration, is the reason why Chinese do not have high blood pressure; or that a certain Indian tribe is healthy and peaceful because their vegetables and fields are fertilized in a certain way. Food is given the credit, whereas heredity, cleanliness, sanitation, and the type of nervous system are tossed to the winds.

Physicians have long made a study of nutrition and at the present time, more extensive research is being carried on than ever before. Many of our best medicos no longer prescribe special diets unless there is a given reason for doing so. Victims of diabetes are now allowed to consume more carbohydrates; and, in kidney trouble, more protein is permitted. Patients with fever are not starved but fed as much as they want; in this way, strength is maintained and recovery is faster.

One of the best editorials on this subject was written by Cornell in the American Journal of Digestive Diseases. He mentions some of the unexplainable facts in diet. There are so many exceptions to the rule that it is hard to know what to believe. In a certain section of Canada, for example, the best people live on salt pork, potatoes, and maple sirup all winter long. This bill-of-fare is practically devoid of vitamins except for C yet the inhabitants are vigorous even in their late seventies.

He also mentions an experience with a woman who consulted him because of a minor ailment. She appeared to be 35 years of age and he was impressed by her beauty, vitality, and youth but was dumbfounded when he discovered that she was actually 65. He felt that this was his golden opportunity to discover the miracle which defied the laws of nature. When he inquired as to the kind of food she ate customarily, she replied, "For twenty years I have cared for nothing at all except bread and butter and tea, and have eaten nothing else at all." We cannot subscribe to this regimen but it shows how little we really know.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Dewey Shakeup To Wake Up Washington; Teamwork and Tenacity Will Feature New Administration Under Republican President; Some Appointments

By DREW PEARSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 — The men around Dewey who will take over the White House 86 days from today are an exciting, hard-working, close-knit clique who function with almost too much perfection and are loaded with calculated coordination. Here is the lineup:

NO. 1 MAN—On the White House staff will be cherub-faced Paul Lockwood, the 6-foot, 4-inch personal secretary to the new Chief Executive, who saw a dream that started 14 years ago become a fact this week when his boy Tom took over.

Lockwood will become secretary to the President. He will bring to Washington a couple of dozen pipes that he puffs at all hours, a habit of working late, sleeping hardly at all, a love of good swing-music, and the greatest fund of amusing stories since Paul Porter left the White House entourage. Lockwood is a bachelor, never found time to get married. He was too busy promoting Tom Dewey for President.

PRESS SECRETARY—Right behind Lockwood will be Jim Hagerty, 39-year-old ex-political writer of the New York Times. Hagerty didn't always love Dewey. As recently as 1942, he and Dewey said a lot of unprintable things about each other both publicly and privately, particularly when Dewey was up to his old trick of denying newspapermen's stories—a habit he hasn't completely forgotten. Hagerty has a simple formula for getting along with the press—trying to get the truth and letting the chips fall where they may. On the whole he sticks to it, though, being human, he has sometimes strayed. Witness his denial of Dewey's remarks on teachers at the Governors' conference last summer.

PERSONAL SECRETARY — Another member of the White House staff will be tiny Lillian Rosse, Dewey's perennially tired-looking 99-pound blonde confidential secretary. A bombshell full of energy, Miss Rosse has been with Dewey for 14 years and probably knows more about him and how he got to the presidency than he does himself.

FINANCE EXPERT — Is ruddy-jawed Elliott Bell, able New York State superintendent of banks and ex-New York Times writer. Dewey and Bell met as law students at Columbia. Dewey, then recently married, enjoyed the Bohemian atmosphere of the Bells' New York apartment, and in 1939 took Bell on as his chief ghost writer. After Dewey was defeated at the Philadelphia 1940 convention, Bell worked for Wendell Willkie, later joined the editorial board of the New York Times.

In 1942 when Dewey decided to run for Governor, he appealed to Bell to resign from the Times to work on his campaign, but Bell refused. Finally he consented to work part time on the campaign, wrote editorials in the daytime and speeches for Dewey until 3 a. m. When the election was over, Dewey asked Bell to become State Superintendent of banks. Despite a $25,000 a year post with the Times, Bell accepted. He has been with Dewey ever since.

LEGAL ADVISOR — Whip-smart young Charles D. Breitel has been counsel to Governor Dewey in Albany since 1943, is expected to have the same job with Dewey that Sam Rosenman had with Roosevelt and Clark Clifford with Truman. Breitel became assistant district attorney on Dewey's staff in the gangbusting days, became his law partner when he left the D. A.'s office in 1941, has an A-1 concept of civil liberties, a steel-trap mind, believes in throwing tough legal problems in to the courts at once rather than letting administrative agencies usurp judicial powers. Breitel is another burner of the midnight oil, will be found at his desk rather than swank dinner parties when the moon comes over the Potomac.

BUDGET EXPERT—Is 39-year-old John E. Burton, New York State budget director, who, unlike Virginia's Senator Byrd, doesn't believe that government expenses can be reduced merely by the traditional expedient of firing bureaucrats.

TAX EXPERT—Alger B. Chapman, head of Dewey's tax commission, is a former partner in the super-lush Washington law firm of Alvord and Alvord, which has represented the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and has tried to persuade Congress to ease taxes for the high-bracket boys. However, Chapman broke with the Alvord firm and is not likely to be influenced by them in writing future tax laws in Washington.

SUPER-PUBLIC RELATIONS—Silken-voiced Harold Keller, who holds the title of Commissioner of Commerce at Albany, will probably handle high-level public relations for the new administration. Keller is a member of the original Dewey team. When Dewey was a young racket-buster in New York, Keller, a New York Criminal reporter and political writer, became press agent for the Dewey combine, helped mastermind the thousands of screaming black headlines that made Dewey a national figure.

PATRONAGE BOSS — Will be snowy-haired, cigar-chewing Ed Jaeckle, who, more than any member of the Dewey team, looks like a professional politician. Kindly, shrewd, with an amazing ability to remember names, Jaeckle resembles Roosevelt's Jim Farley. Jaeckle rowed with Dewey after the 1944 campaign, was virtually dropped from the organization, but came back shortly after Dewey was elected Governor. Jaeckle was largely responsible for amassing the powerful force of delegates Dewey took with him into the Republican convention at Philadelphia.

WOMEN BRAIN-TRUSTERS—Dewey also has two able women in his top entourage. Chicago-born Mrs. Charles W. Weis, Jr., Republican national committeewoman for New York, will wind up in the Dewey cabinet in a new post—Secretary of Social Security. Mrs. Weis, known to intimates as "Judy," is attractive, shy about her age, looks to be on the younger side of 40, but has been married 27 years.

Also active on the Dewey team is Jane Todd, vice-chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, deputy commissioner of commerce.

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

A man who refuses to be President of the United States when he could have been elected on either ticket is worth listening to. There are not many! That man is Eisenhower. And when such a man assumes the presidency of a great university, he is certain to express the basic thinking of his lifetime.

Eisenhower's address on his inauguration as head of Columbia University on October 12, was drowned out by the noise of smaller men. Only a few paragraphs were reported. It should be read widely, especially in our schools and colleges. It was the voice of an American.

In Strategic Position

Whether the turn of the political wheel will again call on him to assume public office, I do not know. But he is in a strategic position today. For, it is in our colleges that a higher percentage of radicals are gnawing at the foundations of American freedom than in any other place. For example, in a New Hampshire college town—with a tax-supported college, at that—out of 60 persons who endorsed Henry A. Wallace, 23 were members of the college faculty.

But here are words from the man who commanded our youth on blood-soaked soil. As he spoke, the General must have had in mind those who made the final sacrifice that their countrymen might be free.

"Government ownership or control of property is not to be decided principally because of the historic inefficiency of governmental management of productive enterprises; its real threat rests in the fact that . . . the final concentration of ownership in the hands of government gives to it, in all practical effects, absolute power over our lives.

"When shallow critics denounce the profit move inherent in our system of private enterprise, they ignore the fact that is is an economic support of every human right we possess and that without it, all rights would soon disappear.

Standard for Teachers

"Macaulay, the English historian . . . wrote in 1857: 'Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand; or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by barbarians in the twentieth century as the Roman Empire was in the fifth; with this difference, that the Huns and Vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire came from without and that your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own country by your own institutions.'

"From the school at the crossroads to a university as great as Columbia, general education for citizenship must be the common and first purpose of them all.

"The teacher must support the sum total of the principles which, among other things, guarantees freedom for all."

If you want to know something about this man when he was a boy, read "Personal Episode," reprinted from Guideposts in the October issue of Reader's Digest.

Here is a standard for our teachers who would preserve that free world and hallowed word—AMERICA!

Gen. Bradley Urges Patience In This Of Russian Tension

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—Amid all the speechmaking of the last few weeks, there was one address which was not made by a political leader or candidate but which ranks as possibly one of the finest public utterances of the year. It was delivered last Thursday in Chicago by the chief of staff of the United States Army, Gen. Omar N. Bradley. It was on the subject of war and peace.

Coming as they do from a military man, the words are all the more significant. For General Bradley has described the present era of tension in relations with Russia in a manner calculated to allay hysteria and the passions or irritations that sometimes bring on war.

"It is not my business," he said, "to speculate either on the possibility of peace or war. Peace is always possible while we have recourse to discussion, compromise and agreement within a council chamber of nations. And there have already been too many morbid predictions of war between the East and the West. These predictions can do nothing but excite suspicion, fear and distrust. They succeed only in making the difficult task of negotiation a more elusive one. And they magnify the danger of war."

Decries Those Who See War

After describing the need for a stable, long-range military policy in America as a measure of prevention, General Bradley went on to decry those who really feel war must come and had better come soon. He said:

"Since the development of new air weapons, enthusiasts have oversimplified the task of fighting a war. Convinced by their own illusions that a war might be won in days, at a safe and comfortable bomber range, they give reckless courage to those fools who could say, 'if war is to come, then let it come now.'

"When we contemplate the terrible prospect of another conflict in our time, we who survived this last one in well-fed comfort, warmth, and wealth, must face the bitter prospect of deprivation, fear, and death. War is no longer a foreign affair; its weapons have invaded our homes. A struggle between two great powers might readily last for many years and leave each of them stricken to death. If we are deceived into taking war lightly and we thus lightly juggle its risks, the American people will flirt with disaster.

"More than anything else, we shall need patience in this era of tension. For it is unlikely we shall find a quick or easy way out. We dare not minimize the seriousness of this contest nor dare we exaggerate it and give way to frenzy.

"That it is serious, no sober person would dare deny. Yet while we speculate on the probabilities of war, we must not lose sight of the possibilities for peace. We in the Army are concerned; but certainly we are not alarmed. The draft is part of our effort to prevent war; it is not mobilization to fight.

"Like many of you, I have hope for agreement—not necessarily in days, weeks, or months. But perhaps in years, or even in decades.

"Therefore, while this tension is disagreeable and trying to those who clamor for peace, it is vastly preferable to war. For it leaves open a door to the hope that we may somehow, sometime, find a solution."

Tension Period Preferable

These words do not sound like those of a soldier—they sound as if they had come from a civilian in the field of diplomacy. For here is a tactful utterance and one that at the same time carries conviction. It may not persuade all the hotheads who are carelessly predicting certain war or who are rejecting every form of negotiation as "compromise" or "appeasement" and gradually narrowing the area of agreement so that war becomes more and more their theory of a logical solution.

A period of tension, as General Bradley says, is far preferable to war. The art of negotiation calls for restraint and patience but mostly it calls for common sense and objectivity. The controversy over the Berlin blockade has become clouded with technicalities and narrow points of pride. It can be resolved, but it never will be as long as there is superficiality and careless statements by public officials on both sides.

Negotiation with Russia has its drawbacks, and there are many people who are arguing that agreement is impossible—which is but another way of saying that only war can settle the issue. The broader point of view requires a painstaking examination of the points in dispute in an unremitting effort to find a basis for settlement. Nobody has stated better than General Bradley the case for self-restraint and patience and for continued negotiation.

Ben Gitlow's Book

EVEN SO WISE a man as William McFee can write a para- such as this:

"Max Eastman, ex-editor of The Masses and now on Reader's Digest, mentions Gitlow's 'non-Bolshevik courage.' Far be it from us to disparage the lost sheep who return, weary and footsore, from the Muscovite mountains, but this praise of one ex-radical by another becomes tiresome. It is becoming a regular profession, well paid too, to renounce Communism and then write a book about it."

The reference is to Benjamin important book, "The Whole of Their Lives," one of the best analyses of the psychology of the Communists that has ever been written. True, Ben Gitlow was once a leader of the Communist movement, not only of America, but of the world. McFee, in his review, wonders how Gitlow knows what he says. He wants confirmation. Anyone familiar with the history of the Communist movement would acknowledge Gitlow as a primary and reliable source. Much that he writes about he lived.

However, what McFee says in effect is that we must distrust all ex-radicals; we must assume that they switch for the money in it. He does not believe in the admission of error, or penitence, in the burning zeal of the convert. He does not forgive. Were we to accept his view, this would indeed be a tough world; the sinner would have to continue to sin lest a cynic suspect his virtue as being the product of lust. No truth could be spoken lest one be suspected of being sanctimonious.

Actually the case of Ben Gitlow is one of hard and bitter suffering and sacrifice for what he believes to be the truth. I have known Gitlow intimately. I have marveled at his courage and his strength in avoiding benefits from his apostasy.

While he and his family were living in dingy quarters, he saw many of his former colleagues, men who could make every twist and turn of the Stalinist line, bask in the sun of White House favors; he saw many of them—still members of the party—rise to high rank in the Federal Government, in Hollywood, in newspapers and magazines, in our universities, in some instances even in business.

His first book, "I Confess," is a textbook on the Communist movement and its methods. This book brought him $500 plus $3,500 from the Cosmopolitan magazine for the serial rights, which, Mr. McFee notwithstanding, is not big pay for leaving the Communist Party. I know of Communist writers who receive more than that for a single story from a so-called capitalist magazine in which they advocate the party line.

After he wrote that book, as was customary in those days, he was boycotted by the left-wing editors of magazines and he found it difficult to get lecture work. Practically every opponent of the Communists in the 1930's suffered from similar boycotts. In fact, as recently as last winter, I knew of editors turning down anti-Communist, anti-Russian articles for "capitalist" magazines as reactionary, Red-baiting and elusive.

Gitlow one day came to see me and said that he had taken a job at $20 a week making some kind of electrical appliance. Gitlow is one of the three or four best informed men on Communism in America, an authority on both theory and practice, but because he told the truth in "I Confess," he was boycotted and condemned. During the war, instead of keeping his government on the qui vive, he worked at menial tasks in a shipyard.

For 20 years Gitlow has been living in this manner while fighting Communism tooth and nail. One of his most recent and valued achievements is the organization with Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of the American Jewish League Against Communism, something that needed doing long ago.

Now he has written a new book, "The Whole Of Their Lives," in which he tells the story of the men who made this movement which has set out to conquer the world—and which in a large measure is succeeding because liberals and ostritches are incapable of understanding its conspiratorial and wicked nature. And they denounce Benjamin Gitlow because he is an ex-radical. St. Paul, be it remembered, was an ex-Pharisee.

Today's Talk

Outdoing The Other Fellow

When you come into New York Harbor from the sea, you are met with a marvelous sight—probably one of the most inspiring of any in the world of like nature.

The great buildings seem to leap into the air and a grave dignity abounds about the crown of this incomparable city.

And yet, when I walk the streets of this marvel of cities, I wonder about the wisdom of these great buildings, some of which reach for over a thousand feet toward the sky. In other cities I see the same mad competition to "have the highest building in town."

On it goes. A bigger steamship than the other fellow's, a bigger plane, a bigger battleship. Just a little while ago we finished our biggest war—and the world is strewn with wreckage which a thousand years will not be able to obliterate.

To beat the other fellow! Why do we not strive to improve on the other fellow, to render a more helpful service, to try to enlarge his lot and chance in the world? What is gained when we have outdone the other fellow along some material line? Hardly more than to have narrowed our own soul and shriveled our heart.

It seems to me that the world is improving on almost everything, except in its knowledge as to how to live. And that's the most important task in life!

Combinations, mergers, machine production—what are they all going to lead us to? In the cities homes are fast disappearing for mere places in which to sleep and take meals. The churches are being emptied. It appears to me that no age ever needed the church as this one of ours does. Not anything sectarian—but a place of peace, rest, beautiful music and talks by men in the pulpit who know all about the hunger condition of people's hearts.

The world is hungry. It craves spiritual food much more, even, than it does food for the physical body. But there must be a reduction to the human equation. We can never arrive at any happy state of being by making our god material success and our measure of triumph that of beating out someone else.

Let the cynic shrug his shoulder and smile at the Golden Rule—it, nevertheless, remains as the corner stone to any success or happiness.

Man In Jail After Family Dispute

Charged with assaulting his father-in-law, Herbert Cann, 32, Baltimore, was committed to the Mineral County Jail, Keyser, W. Va., Monday night in default of $500 bond for action of the grand jury.

Justice of Peace C. A. Jewell said Cann went to the home of George M. Wilkins, about 60, Main Street, Ridgeley, and when the latter opened the door he was attacked.

Wilkins, a Western Maryland Railway shop worker, suffered bruises and lacerations about the face and his eyes were blackened during the fracas, according to Jewell.

The assault occurred when Cann came here in an attempt to get his wife and children to return to Baltimore with him. Jewell said the assault was caused by "family troubles." Chief of Police Jesse Elkins arrested Cann.

Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who investigated, said Judy appeared in Trial Magistrates Court about two weeks ago after a similar incident and was given a 90-day suspended sentence. He reportedly struck the bartender during a dispute.

Another man identified as Clinton L. Knick, 25 Laing Avenue, is being "held for investigation" by local authorities.

Two Local Recruiters Re-enlist At Baltimore

Two veteran members of the local Army and Air Force recruiting office have re-enlisted to fill their own vacancies, according to First Lt. George J. Gocke, commanding officer.

Staff Sgt. George J. Kirby, who came here when the office was reopened October 1, 1945, went to Baltimore last Thursday to sign up for another three year hitch. At present, he is on 30-day re-enlistment leave at Louisville, Ky. He is in charge of recruiting in the United States Employment Office.

Sgt. 1-c Bernard A. Roudabush, who has the second longest service record at the local office, coming here December 1, 1945, was in Baltimore Monday re-enlisting. He is non-commissioned officer in charge of the Cumberland station.

One-Year Enlistments No Longer Limited

First Lt. George J. Gocke, commanding officer of the Cumberland Army and Air Force recruiting station, has announced that effective Monday there is no limit on the number of one-year 18-year-old enlistments which may be taken.

Five three-year enlistments were also made known yesterday. They are Warren D. Ryan, Route 2, this city, United States Air Force; Roy A. Rizer, Wiley Ford, W. Va., Air Force; Henry F. Johnson, Air Force; James D. Jack, Luke, Air Force; Jack R. Simpson, Parsons, W. Va., Airborne, and Ellis H. Shifflett, 905 Glenwood Street, Regular Army.

Bunche Asks U.N. Council To Order Palestine Talks

Seeks Armistice As Peace Prelude

PARIS, Nov. 2 (INS)—United Nations Mediator Ralph Bunche tonight formally asked the Security Council to order Jews and Arabs to negotiate an armistice as a prelude to a Holy Land peace.

The council will meet Thursday, mainly to consider an Anglo-Chinese resolution for sanctions against the belligerents if they disobey the United Nations.

United States Secretary of State Marshall presumably was defeated in any plan aimed at postponing the Palestine Issue.

McNeil Arrives In Paris

British Minister of State Hector McNeil arrived in Paris from London in the wake of Marshall's trip there. Reliable informants said he had specific instructions to press the issue of possible Holy Land sanctions.

McNeil also will try to jam into the Political Committee debate the peace plan of the late Count Folke Bernadotte. This plan includes a revision of the territorial awards of the original partition plan.

Bunche's plan, which he declares is within the framework of the Bernadotte program, first became known Saturday.

It is termed a "peace memorandum" and he submitted it tonight to the council's subcommittee on Palestine.

Bunche's Plan In Brief

The acting American successor to the slain Bernadotte would make the Arabs and Jews negotiate an "ultimate condition of peace" either through direct negotiations or through a mediator.

The Bunche plan calls for a cease-fire enforced either by broad demilitarized belts between the Arab and Israeli forces, large-scale military withdrawals or demobilization by both sides.

The council subcommittee at a late hour tonight had given no assurances that it will put the plan before the full council Thursday. Bunche urged speedy consideration because he said the present tenuous truce cannot be maintained indefinitely.

Election Day

from Republican workers who made such comments as, "Everyone I go after has been brought in by Labor or the Democrats;" or "People are coming out better than usual," and "We are getting more requests for cars."

An early report from District No. 11, Congressman J. Glenn Beall's home precinct, showed that 332 of a registered vote of 477 cast ballots. This is about a 70 per cent vote. Of the number voting 224 were Republicans and 108 Democrats.

In North Cumberland precincts, where the vote was lightest in the last City Election, early indications showed the district might easily lead the city in total percentage of ballots cast.

In a couple of precincts there was heavy criticism of the condition of election books. The books were transcribed last winter. Clerks and judges complain of mispelling of names, some duplications and some omissions. This reporter found two men who said their names were on the books twice. One of them said he was registered in two diferent precincts and could have voted in each, if he wished.

This was checked and it was found the men had been in the Army during World War II and voted by absentee ballot. This evidently registered him automatically. When he returned he registered on Registration Day. He said he only voted once, but was offered a ballot at the second place where he went because a precinct worker told him he was on the books there. Instances such as this may justify some of the criticism voiced by precinct clerks and judges.

Weather is a factor on all Election Days so the politicians say. Light drizzles of rain fell at infrequent intervals. The day was not unusually cold for this time of the year, but was murky and cloudy in the city. In Frostburg and other "Creek" towns, a heavy fog covered the area much of the day and there was a cold rain falling.

Allegany County has a total registration of 41,560 voters. Of this total 23,733 are Republicans; 17,680 are Democrats and 147 listed as other parties or independent. A 70 per cent vote amounts to 29,092. Few 70 per cent votes have ever been reported here.

The total registration in the Sixth Congressional District is 163,493. Of this total 88,859 are Democrats and 70,776 Republicans. The balance are in other parties or independent. Allegany and Garrett counties have Republican majorities. Washington, Montgomery and Frederick counties are Democratic.

The guest speaker received her early schooling in Turkey and completed her preparatory work in France. Later she came to the United States to study at the University of California and at Columbia University, where she majored in political science.

URSULINE "VOTES" DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Students at Ursuline Academy voted a straight Democratic ticket in a mock election held yesterday at the school, with all but five of the 111 students casting ballots.

The Truman-Barkley presidential ticket won 88 votes as compared to 15 for Dewey and Warren, two for Wallace and Taylor and one for Thomas and Smith, Socialist candidates.

In mock voting on Congressional candidates from Maryland's Sixth District, the students cast 75 votes for F. Byrne Austin as compared to 26 for J. Glenn Beall, the Republican incumbent.

The junior class prepared campaign posters and acted as election officials at Precinct 17, "District 6" as the mock voting place was termed.

The balloting was sponsored by the sociology class, which has been collecting political news articles with reference to the campaign for the past two months.

Qualifications of the various candidates and the referenda and constitutional amendments on the ballot were discussed prior to the mock election, in which sample ballots, obtained from regular voting places, were used.

Democrats Lead In Mineral With 3 Precincts Out

Neely Has Edge Over Revercomb

The Democratic Party led by President Harry S. Truman was pushing toward a sweeping victory in Mineral County, W. Va., early today with only three of the county's precincts still to be heard from.

Matthew M. Neely held a 4,145 to 3,940 lead over incumbent Senator Chapman Revercomb, who was also being unseated by a state-wide vote. Neely is a former United States Senator, representative and governor of West Virginia.

Harley O. Staggers, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Second Congressional District, was well ahead of Incumbent Melvin C. Snyder, who is seeking re-election on the Republican ticket. Staggers led 4,628 to 3,555.

In the state election the Democrats also appeared sure of victory in all of the nine offices, with Okey L. Patteson, Mount Hope, W. Va., candidate, leading Herbert S. Boreman to succeed Clarence Meadows as governor of the state.

In the race for Secretary of State Democratic Incumbent D. Pitt O'Brien held a slim lead over A. Sweeney Fleming with a 3,922 to 3,948 vote. W. W. Trent, Democrat, seeking re-election as State Superintendent of Free Schools, led Kenneth W. Shaffer 4,030 to 3,975.

Auditor Edgar B. Sims was leading 4,053 to 3,914 in his fight for re-election over Republican candidate Russell R. Bell. Richard E. Talbott, Democratic incumbent, was leading 3,995 to 3,924 over Hubert B. Lake for the office of State treasurer.

In the fight for Attorney General of the state, Ira J. Partlow, Democrat, who now holds the office, was leading 3,991 to 3,937 over Walter F. Ball.

In other contests the results stood:

Judge Of Supreme Court of Appeals—Fred L. Fox (D) 3,952; J. W. Maxwell (R) 3,932. James B. Riley (D) 3,962; Lewis H. Miller (R) 3,817. (Two to be elected).

Army Reserve To Meet Thursday In City Hall

The first of two November meetings of the 208th Organized Reserve Corps Composite Group will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in City Auditorium, according to Capt. Thomas Stafford, unit inspector.

Lt. Clyde W. Whipkey, unit officer, will discuss "The Mission of the Armored Force" and Capt. Stafford will give a talk on "Inactive Duty Pay," explaining the latest Department of the Army order.

Lt. Whipkey was a member of the Sixth Armored Force of Gen. George Patton's Third Army which fought in the Battle of the Bulge.

The next meeting will be Thursday, November 18, in the auditorium. The subjects for discussion will be "Organization of the Armor" and "Armor in the Attack."

Democrats

In three other New England states, Democrats were leading in two, and a Republican in the third —New Hampshire. In Connecticut, Chester Bowles, Democrat, was still ahead of James C. Shannon, Republican incumbent, but had lost ground from earlier returns.

Paul A. Dever, Democrat, was running well ahead of Robert F. Bradford, Republican incumbent in Massachusetts.

Democrats held wide margins in Missouri, Texas and their candidate in West Virginia was forging further into the lead. The Democrats also held edges in Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, New Mexico.

There were no returns from North Carolina, Washington and Minnesota.

Two Are Quizzed In Armed Holdup At Liquor Store

Police Indicate Men To Be Freed

A three-state search for two armed holdup men who took $100 from Martin's Liquor Store, 15 Baltimore Street, Monday, continued last night after local police questioned two suspects briefly, but indicated both would be released within a few hours.

Authorities said the suspects were arrested after a tip was received from a suburban roadhouse that two men had spent the night there who answered the description of the bandits.

Police said the liquor store clerk, Philip Becker, who was backed to a wall while one of the bandits looted the cash register, failed to identify either suspect. Becker viewed the prisoners at police headquarters.

Authorities said the suspects whom they did not identify, would be held a few hours for further questioning concerning their actions last night, but one official indicated the men were already cleared of suspicion in the holdup.

Descriptions of the pair was teletyped and broadcast by Maryland State Police to other parts of the state and into Pennsylvania and West Virginia shortly after the holdup Monday at 5:45 p. m.

Becker told police he saw the two men running down Canal Street after they left the store. Investigating officers said one of the bandits took Becker's wallet and two miniature bottles of liquor. The wallet contained no money, police said.

Police said no witnesses could be found who saw the pair leave the store after they looted the cash register and ordered Decker to face the wall until they got their automobile started. The pair left by the Baltimore Street entrance, police were told.

The only indication that the two holdup men had a car waiting for them came from the taller of the two in his statement to Decker. Police indicated last night that they were not sure the pair escaped in an automobile.

Police Go On Mercy Errand

Maryland State Police, guardians of the highways, played a different role yesterday afternoon as they hurried a local doctor to the home of a woman reported "seriously ill."

Trooper William Baker said his cruiser was dispatched to deliver the doctor to the home of Miss Martha Davis, five miles east of Cumberland on Route 40. The physician's car was damaged in an accident the previous night.

Police took the physician and then waited for him to treat Miss Davis. They returned him to his office.

Democrats Lead Tucker County At Half-Way Mark

D. E. Crosten Only Republican Leading

With 10 of its 21 precincts heard from at 1:45 a. m. Tucker County, W. Va., went Democratic all the way down the line on the state and national ballot.

President Harry S. Truman was leading Thomas E. Dewey by a vote of 1,581 to 1,058, giving Henry A. Wallace a straggling 13 votes. The county was also loyal to veteran politician Matthew M. Neely, giving him 1,524 votes to 1,072 for the incumbent, Senator Chapman Revercomb, in the race for the United States Senate.

In the state fight, Okey L. Patteson, Democrat, had a 500 vote lead over Herbert S. Boreman, Republican, for governor, receiving 1,581 votes to the Republican candidate's 1,031.

For Congressman from the Second District, Harley O. Staggers amassed a vote of 1,565 compared to Melvin C. Snyder, Republican from Kingwood, with a vote of 1,003.

Other early returns included: Secretary of State, D. Pitt O'Brie, 1,391, A. Sweeney Fleming, 1,00; State Superintendent of Free Schools, W. W. Trent, 1,475, Kenneth W. Shaffer, 1,063; Auditor, Edgar B. Sims, 1,520, Russell R. Bell, 993; Treasurer, Richard E. Talbott, 1,266, Hubert B. Lake, 1,19; Ira J. Partlow, 1,471, Walter F. Ball, 1,077; Commissioner of Agriculture, James Blaine McLaughlin, 1,365, William B. Rhodes, 97; Judges of the Supreme Court of Appeals (two elected) Fred L. Fox, 1,305, James B. Riley, 1,370, Judge J. W. Maxwell, 1,036, Lewis H. Miller, 960.

D. E. Crosten, Republican candidate for sheriff, had 1,480 votes to 1,176 for E. G. Moorman making him seemingly the only non-Democrat to capture a place in the election.

Other county early returns included member of House of Delegates, Harold W. Shaffer, 1,303, J. J. Mullennex, 1,181; Assessor, J. Harold Felton, 1,555, H. Stanley Lambert, 1,079, and County Commissioner, V. E. Rightmire, 1,331, Robert O. Shrout, 1,044.

Congressional

Senate were ahead in the tussle for six seats now held by Republicans. Those were in Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, West Virginia and Wyoming.

In addition, they were leading for three seats now held by men of their own party in Colorado, Montana and New Mexico.

And in the eleventh crucial state, the Senate victory went to former Gov. Robert S. Kerr, Democrat, who defeated Ross Rizley, Republican, for the seat vacated by Republican E. H. Moore.

Sen. Green, Rhode Island Democrat, was re-elected as had been predicted widely.

Close Race In New Jersey

Democrats returned six senators from Dixie—Ellender of Louisiana, Eastland of Mississippi, Russell of Georgia, Sparkman of Alabama, Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia—while Republicans elected Margaret Chase Smith to the Senate from Maine last September.

A spirited contest for a Senate seat developed in New Jersey, with Republican Robert C. Hendrickson leading Democrat Archibald S. Alexander by some 17,000 votes out of the first 878,000 reported. A Republican, Albert Hawkes, now holds the seat.

Due largely to lack of contests in the South, Democrats had seated 118 of their House candidates and Republicans 38.

Still Chance

There remained a chance that, because of Thurmond's insurgency, neither Truman nor Dewey would get clear majority of the electoral college.

That would throw the election into the House of Representatives (the House of the 81st Congress, not the 80th, which Truman has blasted as history's second worst.)

But some legal maneuverings were in the books first. Democrats in Alabama, wrathful over the Truman civil rights program, froze the President completely off the ballot there, and a court fight is threatened over their action.

Henry A. Wallace, Progressive Patry nominee, chalked up only a camparative handful of the popular vote. But those he got in New York might have given Truman that state's 47 votes.

But the Democrats, surging up from despondency with the fighting Truman, scored distinct advances around the country in the governorship fights.

Before dawn today, they had elected 13 governors, and the Republicans only seven. In the 13 races still unsettled, Democrats were leading in eight and Republicans in five.

Republican campaign managers toned down their victory predictions as the night wore on. However, apparent victory in New York State set off new GOP claims. The Democrats were restrained, but hopeful.

There was no word yet from either Gov. Dewey, in New York, or President Truman, in Missouri.

Bunche Asks U.N. Council To Order Palestine Talks

Seeks Armistice As Peace Prelude

PARIS, Nov. 2 (INS)—United Nations Mediator Ralph Bunche tonight formally asked the Security Council to order Jews and Arabs to negotiate an armistice as a prelude to a Holy Land peace.

The council will meet Thursday, mainly to consider an Anglo-Chinese resolution for sanctions against the belligerents if they disobey the United Nations.

United States Secretary of State Marshall presumably was defeated in any plan aimed at postponing the Palestine Issue.

McNeil Arrives In Paris

British Minister of State Hector McNeil arrived in Paris from London in the wake of Marshall's trip there. Reliable informants said he had specific instructions to press the issue of possible Holy Land sanctions.

McNeil also will try to jam into the Political Committee debate the peace plan of the late Count Folke Bernadotte. This plan includes a revision of the territorial awards of the original partition plan.

Bunche's plan, which he declares is within the framework of the Bernadotte program, first became known Saturday.

It is termed a "peace memorandum" and he submitted it tonight to the council's subcommittee on Palestine.

Bunche's Plan In Brief

The acting American successor to the slain Bernadotte would make the Arabs and Jews negotiate an "ultimate condition of peace" either through direct negotiations or through a mediator.

The Bunche plan calls for a cease-fire enforced either by broad demilitarized belts between the Arab and Israeli forces, large-scale military withdrawals or demobilization by both sides.

The council subcommittee at a late hour tonight had given no assurances that it will put the plan before the full council Thursday. Bunche urged speedy consideration because he said the present tenuous truce cannot be maintained indefinitely.

from Republican workers who made such comments as, "Everyone I go after has been brought in by Labor or the Democrats;" or "People are coming out better than usual," and "We are getting more requests for cars."

An early report from District No. 11, Congressman J. Glenn Beall's home precinct, showed that 332 of a registered vote of 477 cast ballots. This is about a 70 per cent vote. Of the number voting 224 were Republicans and 108 Democrats.

In North Cumberland precincts, where the vote was lightest in the last City Election, early indications showed the district might easily lead the city in total percentage of ballots cast.

In a couple of precincts there was heavy criticism of the condition of election books. The books were transcribed last winter. Clerks and judges complain of mispelling of names, some duplications and some omissions. This reporter found two men who said their names were on the books twice. One of them said he was registered in two different precincts and could have voted in each, if he wished.

This was checked and it was found the men had been in the Army during World War II and voted by absentee ballot. This evidently registered him automatically. When he returned he registered on Registration Day. He said he only voted once, but was offered a ballot at the second place where he went because a precinct worker told him he was on the books there. Instances such as this may justify some of the criticism voiced by precinct clerks and judges.

Weather is a factor on all Election Days so the politicians say. Light drizzles of rain fell at infrequent intervals. The day was not unusually cold for this time of the year, but was murky and cloudy in the city. In Frostburg and other "Creek" towns, a heavy fog covered the area much of the day and there was a cold rain falling.

Allegany County has a total registration of 41,560 voters. Of this total 23,733 are Republicans; 17,680 are Democrats and 147 listed as other parties or independent. A 70 per cent vote amounts to 29,092. Few 70 per cent votes have ever been reported here.

The total registration in the Sixth Congressional District is 163,493. Of this total 88,859 are Democrats and 70,776 Republicans. The balance are in other parties or independent. Allegany and Garrett counties have Republican majorities. Washington, Montgomery and Frederick counties are Democratic.

URSULINE "VOTES" DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Students at Ursuline Academy voted a straight Democratic ticket in a mock election held yesterday at the school, with all but five of the 111 students casting ballots.

The Truman-Barkley presidential ticket won 88 votes as compared to 15 for Dewey and Warren, two for Wallace and Taylor and one for Thomas and Smith, Socialist candidates.

In mock voting on Congressional candidates from Maryland's Sixth District, the students cast 75 votes for F. Byrne Austin as compared to 26 for J. Glenn Beall, the Republican incumbent.

The junior class prepared campaign posters and acted as election officials at Precinct 17, "District 6" as the mock voting place was termed.

The balloting was sponsored by the sociology class, which has been collecting political news articles with reference to the campaign for the past two months.

Qualifications of the various candidates and the referenda and constitutional amendments on the ballot were discussed prior to the mock election, in which sample ballots, obtained from regular voting places, were used.

Neely Has Edge Over Revercomb

The Democratic Party led by President Harry S. Truman was pushing toward a sweeping victory in Mineral County, W. Va., early today with only three of the county's precincts still to be heard from.

Matthew M. Neely held a 4,145 to 3,940 lead over incumbent Senator Chapman Revercomb, who was also being unseated by a state-wide vote. Neely is a former United States Senator, representative and governor of West Virginia.

Harley O. Staggers, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Second Congressional District, was well ahead of Incumbent Melvin C. Snyder, who is seeking re-election on the Republican ticket. Staggers led 4,628 to 3,555.

In the state election the Democrats also appeared sure of victory in all of the nine offices, with Okey L. Patteson, Mount Hope, W. Va., candidate, leading Herbert S. Boreman to succeed Clarence Meadows as governor of the state.

In the race for Secretary of State Democratic Incumbent D. Pitt O'Brien held a slim lead over A. Sweeney Fleming with a 3,922 to 3,948 vote. W. W. Trent, Democrat, seeking re-election as State Superintendent of Free Schools, led Kenneth W. Shaffer 4,030 to 3,975.

Auditor Edgar B. Sims was leading 4,053 to 3,914 in his fight for re-election over Republican candidate Russell R. Bell. Richard E. Talbott, Democratic incumbent, was leading 3,995 to 3,924 over Hubert B. Lake for the office of State treasurer.

In the fight for Attorney General of the state, Ira J. Partlow, Democrat, who now holds the office, was leading 3,991 to 3,937 over Walter F. Ball.

In other contests the results stood:

Judge Of Supreme Court of Appeals—Fred L. Fox (D) 3,952; J. W. Maxwell (R) 3,932. James B. Riley (D) 3,962; Lewis H. Miller (R) 3,817. (Two to be elected).

running more than 98,000 ahead of Hobart Creighton, Republican, in Indiana.

In three other New England states, Democrats were leading in two, and a Republican in the third —New Hampshire. In Connecticut, Chester Bowles, Democrat, was still ahead of James C. Shannon, Republican incumbent, but had lost ground from earlier returns.

Paul A. Dever, Democrat, was running well ahead of Robert F. Bradford, Republican incumbent in Massachusetts.

Democrats held wide margins in Missouri, Texas and their candidate in West Virginia was forging further into the lead. The Democrats also held edges in Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, New Mexico.

There were no returns from North Carolina, Washington and Minnesota.

Two Are Quizzed In Armed Holdup At Liquor Store

Police Indicate Men To Be Freed

A three-state search for two armed holdup men who took $100 from Martin's Liquor Store, 15 Baltimore Street, Monday, continued last night after local police questioned two suspects briefly, but indicated both would be released within a few hours.

Authorities said the suspects were arrested after a tip was received from a suburban roadhouse that two men had spent the night there who answered the description of the bandits.

Police said the liquor store clerk, Philip Becker, who was backed to a wall while one of the bandits looted the cash register, failed to identify either suspect. Becker viewed the prisoners at police headquarters.

Authorities said the suspects whom they did not identify, would be held a few hours for further questioning concerning their actions last night, but one official indicated the men were already cleared of suspicion in the holdup.

Descriptions of the pair was teletyped and broadcast by Maryland State Police to other parts of the state and into Pennsylvania and West Virginia shortly after the holdup Monday at 5:45 p. m.

Becker told police he saw the two men running down Canal Street after they left the store. Investigating officers said one of the bandits took Becker's wallet and two miniature bottles of liquor. The wallet contained no money, police said.

Police said no witnesses could be found who saw the pair leave the store after they looted the cash register and ordered Decker to face the wall until they got their automobile started. The pair left by the Baltimore Street entrance, police were told.

The only indication that the two holdup men had a car waiting for them came from the taller of the two in his statement to Decker. Police indicated last night that they were not sure the pair escaped in an automobile.

Police Go On Mercy Errand

Maryland State Police, guardians of the highways, played a different role yesterday afternoon as they hurried a local doctor to the home of a woman reported "seriously ill."

Trooper William Baker said his cruiser was dispatched to deliver the doctor to the home of Miss Martha Davis, five miles east of Cumberland on Route 40. The physician's car was damaged in an accident the previous night.

Police took the physician and then waited for him to treat Miss Davis. They returned him to his office.

Democrats Lead Tucker County At Half-Way Mark

D. E. Crosten Only Republican Leading

With 10 of its 21 precincts heard from at 1:45 a. m. Tucker County, W. Va., went Democratic all the way down the line on the state and national ballot.

President Harry S. Truman was leading Thomas E. Dewey by a vote of 1,581 to 1,058, giving Henry A. Wallace a straggling 13 votes. The county was also loyal to veteran politician Matthew M. Neely, giving him 1,524 votes to 1,072 for the incumbent, Senator Chapman Revercomb, in the race for the United States Senate.

In the state fight, Okey L. Patteson, Democrat, had a 500 vote lea over Herbert S. Boreman, Republican, for governor, receiving 1,56 votes to the Republican candidate 1,031.

For Congressman from the Secon District, Harley O. Staggers amassed a vote of 1,565 compared to Melvin C. Snyder, Republican fro Kingwood, with a vote of 1,003.

Other early returns included: Secretary of State, D. Pitt O'Brie, 1,391, A. Sweeney Fleming, 1,00; State Superintendent of Free Schools, W. W. Trent, 1,475, Kenneth W. Shaffer, 1,063; Auditc, Edgar B. Sims, 1,520, Russell L. Bell, 993; Treasurer, Richard E. Talbott, 1,266, Hubert B. Lake, 1,19; Ira J. Partlow, 1,471, Walter F. Ball, 1,077; Commissioner of Agriculture, James Blaine McLaughlin, 1,365, William B. Rhodes, 97; Judges of the Supreme Court of Appeals (two elected) Fred L. Fox, 1,305, James B. Riley, 1,370, Judge J. W. Maxwell, 1,036, Lewis H. Miller, 960.

D. E. Crosten, Republican candidate for sheriff, had 1,480 votes to 1,176 for E. G. Moorman making hi mseemingly the only non-Democrat to capture a place in the election.

Other county early returns included member of House of Delegates, Harold W. Shaffer, 1,303, J. J. Mullennex, 1,181; Assessor, J. Harold Felton, 1,555, H. Stanley Lambert, 1,079, and County Commissioner, V. E. Rightmire, 1,331, Robert O. Shrout, 1,044.

Senate were ahead in the tussle for six seats now held by Republicans. Those were in Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, West Virginia and Wyoming.

In addition, they were leading for three seats now held by men of their own party in Colorado, Montana and New Mexico.

And in the eleventh crucial state, the Senate victory went to former Gov. Robert S. Kerr, Democrat, who defeated Ross Rizley, Republican, for the seat vacated by Republican E. H. Moore.

Sen. Green, Rhode Island Democrat, was re-elected as had been predicted widely.

Close Race In New Jersey

Democrats returned six senators from Dixie—Ellender of Louisiana, Eastland of Mississippi, Russell of Georgia, Sparkman of Alabama, Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia—while Republicans elected Margaret Chase Smith to the Senate from Maine last September.

A spirited contest for a Senate seat developed in New Jersey, with Republican Robert C. Hendrickson leading Democrat Archibald S. Alexander by some 17,000 votes out of the first 878,000 reported. A Republican, Albert Hawkes, now holds the seat.

Due largely to lack of contests in the South, Democrats had sested 118 of their House candidates and Republicans 38.

Still Chance

There remained a chance that, because of Thurmond's insurgency, neither Truman nor Dewey would get clear majority of the electoral college.

That would throw the election into the House of Representatives (the House of the 81st Congress, not the 80th, which Truman has blasted as history's second worst.)

But some legal maneuverings were in the books first. Democrats in Alabama, wrathful over the Truman civil rights program, froze the President completely off the ballot there, and a court fight is threatened over their action.

Henry A. Wallace, Progressive Patry nominee, chalked up only a camparative handful of the popular vote. But those he got in New York might have given Truman that state's 47 votes.

But the Democrats, surging up from despondency with the fighting Truman, scored distinct advances around the country in the governorship fights.

Before dawn today, they had elected 13 governors, and the Republicans only seven. In the 13 races still unsettled, Democrats were leading in eight and Republicans in five.

Republican campaign managers toned down their victory predictions as the night wore on. However, apparent victory in New York State set off new GOP claims. The Democrats were restrained, but hopeful.

There was no word yet from either Gov. Dewey, in New York, or President Truman, in Missouri.

Local Banks Cash Record Number Of Checks This Year

Cumberland banks have paid 150 per cent more checks in the first nine months of this year than they did in the same period of 1940. The nine-months amount of $191,637,000 is also an increase of 3.1 per cent over last year.

The American Banker survey compares the records of 333 cities for the first three-quarters of the year.

Cumberland's September record was the best in history, the survey revealed. That month, debits totaled 122,402,000, an increase of 1.8 per cent, giving the city third place among four Maryland cities listed.

Baltimore State Leader

Baltimore had its best September on record with debits of $965,795,000 an increase of 8.5 per cent. Baltimore's nine months total was $8,584,167,000 an increase of 9.9 per cent over 1947 and 149 per cent better than in 1940.

Hagerstown had a banner September with debits of $27,061,000, an increase of 7.6 per cent. For the nine months the Washington county city had $237,921,000, an increase of 8.9 per cent over 1947 and 191 per cent better than in 1940.

Frederick kept pace in September registering its best mark in history with debits of $20,812,000 or an increase of 7 per cent. Frederick's nine months total was $169,122,000, an increase of 7.6 per cent over 1947 and 96 per cent better than in 1940.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are "personal questions" in bad taste?

Answer: I was brought up to believe so, and I've learned since that they defeat their own purpose. Trying to pry information out of people which they do not want to give you not only antagonizes them, but makes sure they'll tell you just as little as they possibly can. On the other side, most people want to talk about themselves and will seize the first opportunity to do so if they do not feel you have an axe to grind in listening to them. The less curious you seem, the more you'll find out by what psychiatrists call the "passive technique."

Are most people honest in small matters?

Answer: Rather more than half are, report a group of psychologists who dropped postal cards or stamped and addressed letters on the sidewalks of several cities. Eighty-five per cent of simple letters were mailed by the finders, but the figure dropped to 54 per cent when the letters contained slugs the size of a 50-cent piece. I wonder whether more people might not have been honest if the amount had been larger. A sum which has "no real loss" has a special appeal to the wish to get something for nothing.

Can a child be spoon-fed too soon?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, professor of pediatrics of the Mayo Foundation. He cites this as characteristic of how "we expect young children to behave in ways for which they are not ready," since often the muscles of the lips and tongue have not been properly developed at the time we ask a child to adopt this new way of eating. "Premature attempts to train children in bowel and bladder control" may be still worse. Because they can't meet our demands, "children become confused, resistant and subject to emotional storms."

The first regular transcontinental mail service by air began between New York and San Francisco in 1920.

State Ranks High In Doctors On Per Capita Basis

Maryland ranks fifth in the nation in the number of active private physicians on a per capita basis, according to a report by Medical Economics, national business magazine for physicians.

The only states to surpass Maryland are Massachusetts (744), Connecticut (836), New York (640) and Colorado (805). The District of Columbia also has a better per capita average (582).

The Maryland figures, however, may not give the true picture in regards to distribution since a large number of physicians are located at or practicing near the state's medical centers in and around Baltimore or at state institutions.

For example, Cumberland with a population of approximately 45,000 has 57 practicing physicians or one per 787 persons. Allegany county, with a population of 86,973 has 70 physicians or one for each 1,242 persons.

In Garrett county the population is 21,981 and there are seven practicing doctors or one for each 3,140 persons.

The doctors in the city, Allegany and Garrett counties are on the rolls of the Allegany-Garrett Medical Association, and the list was supplied by Dr. L. E. Daugherty, who is the group's secretary.

The magazine's nation-wide report was compiled from population estimates of the U. S. Census Bureau and from its circulation file of all 135,000 active, private doctors in the country.

Most doctors per population, the report shows, are found in the District of Columbia. The fewest medical men in relation to population are found in Mississippi which has one for each 2,420 people.

In addition to Mississippi, medicine is least competitive in Alabama, Arkansas, New Mexico and South Carolina.

North is placed at the top of maps not for any special reason, but simply because the custom has been followed for hundreds of years.

NOTICE TO DEALERS OF NEW MEDIUM PRICED PASSENGER CARS

Sealed bids will be received by The County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, until 10:00 a. m., at its office in the Court House, Cumberland, Maryland, on Friday, November 5, 1948, for one (1) new five passenger closed car of the medium price and weight class.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

The Maryland figures, however, may not give the true picture in regards to distribution since a large number of physicians are located at or practicing near the state's medical centers in and around Baltimore or at state institutions.

For example, Cumberland with a population of approximately 45,000 has 57 practicing physicians or one per 787 persons. Allegany county, with a population of 86,973 has 70 physicians or one for each 1,242 persons.

In Garrett county the population is 21,981 and there are seven practicing doctors or one for each 3,140 persons.

The doctors in the city, Allegany and Garrett counties are on the rolls of the Allegany-Garrett Medical Association, and the list was supplied by Dr. L. E. Daugherty, who is the group's secretary.

The magazine's nation-wide report was compiled from population estimates of the U. S. Census Bureau and from its circulation file of all 135,000 active, private doctors in the country.

Most doctors per population, the report shows, are found in the District of Columbia. The fewest medical men in relation to population are found in Mississippi which has one for each 2,420 people.

In addition to Mississippi, medicine is least competitive in Alabama, Arkansas, New Mexico and South Carolina.

North is placed at the top of maps not for any special reason, but simply because the custom has been followed for hundreds of years.

Judge Henderson To Winter In Fla.

Following doctor's orders, Associate Judge George Henderson will leave next week for Florida to continue his convalescence from injuries received May 16 when his car was struck by a tractor-trailer about three miles west of Clearspring.

Judge Henderson said his physician has ordered him to go south in order to avoid the cold weather which might complicate his recovery. The local jurist suffered 14 fractures in the accident and also had pneumonia and several blood clots.

A heart condition caused by the injuries and shock is causing the most concern at present, with his physician deciding that the mild climate of Florida will aid in his recovery.

Judge Henderson will go to Florida by easy stages with his wife, Mrs. Joan Henderson driving their car. The results of the trip south will determine just when he will return to the bench in Circuit Court here, Judge Henderson said.

He said he does not expect to be able to return for the January term of court, but he does believe he will be well enough to resume his judicial duties at the April term or just before that term opens.

Judge Henderson was a patient in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, for several months before he was brought home. His condition for some weeks after the mishap was only fair.

Possible Slave Shelter Found At Church House

A sub-cellar beneath the church house of the First Presbyterian Church, believed to be a cellar used for slaves prior to the Civil War, has been discovered by Ronald Decker and John Diuguid, both of LaVale.

The boys said they had heard reports of the sub-cellars and that in poking around found a hole in the regular basement to effect an entrance to the lower rooms. An old door with an ancient lock led to the sub-cellar. In the cellar was one room, about 10 by 12 feet, and a cell of six by eight foot dimensions.

There was nothing in the two places except for several old water jugs and a cupboard with wooden rings inside.

The boys informed Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the church, and he said that it was the first knowledge he had of the sub-cellar since his long service as pastor here.

Judge Henderson To Winter In Fla.

Following doctor's orders, Associate Judge George Henderson will leave next week for Florida to continue his convalescence from injuries received May 16 when his car was struck by a tractor-trailer about three miles west of Clearspring.

Judge Henderson said his physician has ordered him to go south in order to avoid the cold weather which might complicate his recovery. The local jurist suffered 14 fractures in the accident and also had pneumonia and several blood clots.

A heart condition caused by the injuries and shock is causing the most concern at present, with his physician deciding that the mild climate of Florida will aid in his recovery.

Judge Henderson will go to Florida by easy stages with his wife, Mrs. Joan Henderson driving their car. The results of the trip south will determine just when he will return to the bench in Circuit Court here, Judge Henderson said.

He said he does not expect to be able to return for the January term of court, but he does believe he will be well enough to resume his judicial duties at the April term or just before that term opens.

Judge Henderson was a patient in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, for several months before he was brought home. His condition for some weeks after the mishap was only fair.

Possible Slave Shelter Found At Church House

A sub-cellar beneath the church house of the First Presbyterian Church, believed to be a cellar used for slaves prior to the Civil War, has been discovered by Ronald Decker and John Diuguid, both of LaVale.

The boys said they had heard reports of the sub-cellars and that in poking around found a hole in the regular basement to effect an entrance to the lower rooms. An old door with an ancient lock led to the sub-cellar. In the cellar was one room, about 10 by 12 feet, and a cell of six by eight foot dimensions.

There was nothing in the two places except for several old water jugs and a cupboard with wooden rings inside.

The boys informed Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the church, and he said that it was the first knowledge he had of the sub-cellar since his long service as pastor here.

Fort Hill Vs. Allegany

Comparative Statistics

Urges Thicker Padding

Childress Seeking Fight

By C. V. BURNS

If statistics on games played to date by the unbeaten and untied football teams of Fort Hill and Allegany mean anything the annual Thanksgiving Day contest between the Scarlet and White and the Blue and White has all the earmarks of a toss-up.

Thus far Bill Hahn's warriors have bagged eight wins while Bob Pence's aggregation has seven triumphs to its credit.

Both teams are expected to enter the November 25 games with 9-0 records.

Fort Hill has scored 273 points, Allegany 264.

In yardage gained rushing, Fort Hill's average for eight games is 287 yards against 277 for AHS in seven contests.

Allegany has completed 48 per cent of its forward passes while the Hilltoppers' average is 45 per cent.

The Campobello eleven has averaged 55 yards per game on aerials compared to 54 for the Hahnmen.

Fort Hill holds a decided edge in the matter of scoring points after touchdowns, boasting an average of 77 per cent to an even 60 for A.H.S.

Allegany has scored seven of its touchdowns via the air and Fort Hill relied on overhead thrusts to mark up a half dozen six-pointers.

Fort Hill has been penalized an average of 45 yards per game while the Campers have been set back 36 yards per contest.

And the teams are tied in total touchdowns — each having scored forty.

	Fort Hill	Allegany
Total Points scored	273	264
Games Won	8	7
Touchdowns scored	40	40
Safety scored	1	0
(*) Tries for points converted	31-40	24-40
Passes Tried	44	35
Passes Completed	20	17
Yards Gained Passing	435	390
Total first downs	107	92
Yards Gained Rushing	2,300	1,940
Touchdowns scored on passes	6	7
Total Yards Lost on penalties	360	255

(*) Burke has scored 29 extra points and Mason and Tucker one each for Fort Hill. Don Dicken and Schramm have scored 12 points each for Allegany.

Frank Wiener, of Philadelphia, who served as chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission from 1926 through 1931, says that inadequate ring padding has caused more ring tragedies in the last three years than ever before.

He points out that none of the deaths resulted from blows inflicted by fighters' opponents. In every case the injuries resulted when a boxer's head struck inadequately padded ring floors.

Wiener urges that padding on ring floors be increased from 1 to 1¼ inches thickness as a safety measure.

The former chairman also said the Keystone State commission should enforce its rule barring promoters from staging fights involving boxers in which they are interested. We think boxing would be better off if this rule were enforced in every state.

That's when the famed triumvirate of Cash, Curry and Huddle held the coaching reins at AHS.

It's Rev. Max Huddle now and he's regarded as quite a speaker at training schools conducted by the Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Mr. Huddle served as Navy chaplain during the war with 21 months' overseas duty at Bougainville, Guadalcanal, Admiralty Islands and New Caledonia in the South Pacific in 1943-45. He was a member of the 71st Seabee Battalion.

He tips the beam between 140 and 145 pounds and he says "I'm in good shape."

Jimmy's last appearance in a local ring was on November 24, 1947, when he was stopped by Bill Mann in a sizzling match that ended in 41 seconds of the third round. It really was a knockdown and dragout affair while it lasted.

"I still think I can lick that guy Mann," Childress declared.

Zivic Hopes To Land Bouts In The South

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2 (AP) — Fritzie Zivic, the battered ex-welterweight boxing champion who has quit the ring at least three times for good, today bustled about with plans for a barnstorming fight tour.

Zivic, now 35 and owner of one of the most fantastically curved noses in ring history, hopes to take off in a couple weeks in a rented trailer. He'll head southward, seeking fights wherever they can be found.

Zivic said his first fight will be in Macon, Ga., with Al Reid, 148-pound South Carolinian.

The veteran of more than 300 professional fights, Fritzie won the welterweight title in 1940 from Henry Armstrong. He lost the crown two years later to Red Cochrane.

Grid Spotlight Shifts To East As Penn-Penn State Clash

Chuck Bednarik — Penn center

Pete Elliott — Michigan back

Ev Faunce — Minnesota back

Ernie Kovatch — Indiana end

Joe Colone — Penn State back

TOPPED BY THE MEETING of Penn State and Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, the grid slate for Saturday, Nov. 6, is a heavy one as usual. Other stellar attractions include the clashes of Princeton and Harvard, Dartmouth and Columbia, Oklahoma and Missouri, California and U.C.L.A., Army and Stanford, Michigan and Navy, Minnesota-Purdue and Notre Dame-Indiana.

Gil Stephenson, Southern Comet, Stars For Army

Fullback Makes Cadets Forget Glenn, "Doc"

By GAYLE TALBOT

WEST POINT, Nov. 2 (AP)—There is a growing feeling around here that Gil Stephenson, a thin-shanked fullback from Columbus, Ga., is about to make the Cadets forget Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

They are waiting only to see if he continues his phenomenal ball-carrying against Stanford at the Yankee Stadium this Saturday and against Penn the following week before they go overboard on the Southern Comet.

Stephenson, a yearling with only six varsity games behind him, really looks like something special. He pops through an opposing line like a rabbit out of the underbrush, and he is harder to get down than a greased shoat.

He has carried 103 times—exclusively through the middle—for 662 yards, or an average of 6.4 yards. Against Virginia Tech last week he averaged over eight yards, though two fine runs of 23 and 13 yards were called back.

Stanford will find it as difficult to understand where Stephenson gets his driving power as it will to flag him down. He stands an even six feet and weighs only 181, yet as he slams and wrenches his way through the secondary he gives the impression he is rocket propelled.

Up to now, Coach Earl Blaik has let Bobby Stuart, Jim Cain and his other halfbacks turn the wings while Stephenson concentrated on the quick-openers inside the tackles.

Blaik says his present team is much better than last year's, and even better than the '45 outfit, on which Davis and Blanchard played. Up to now, the Army mentor is not classing it above his all-conquering array of '46, when "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. Outside" reached their fullest flower.

GRID WHIZ — Stan Heath, quarterback of the undefeated University of Nevada team, continues to make All-American news as he smashes the all-time collegiate offensive record set by Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian and tied by Bud Schwenk of Washington U. — with several games still to play. Heath, a fugitive from the University of Wisconsin, already has piled up to a total of 1,655 yards in six games to crack the former mark of 1,457. Heath appears to be a sure bet for All-American honors.

Reno Eleven Sets Average Of 533 Yards

Mustangs Complete 62 Out Of 94 Passes

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nevada, Army and Southern Methodist are running away from the field in the race for offensive honors among the nation's major football teams, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau discloses.

Nevada, featuring the amazing throwing arm of Stan Heath, already is virtually "in" as 1948 champion both in passing offense and total offense. The Reno eleven boasts an awesome average gain of 533.3 yards in six games.

Set Pace In Rushing

Army's powerful team, ranked No. 4 nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, leads all rivals in the potency of its rushing attack. In six games Cadet ball carriers led by Gil Stephenson, have ground out an average of 354.2 yards per contest.

Southern Methodist leads the pack in passing efficiency, having clicked on 62 out of 94 tosses for a lofty percentage of .660. The Mustangs stand second in touchdown passes, with 14 to Nevada's 22.

Nevada's 710 - yard spree (268 rushing, 442 passing) against Oklahoma City last Saturday broke by two yards the Wolfpack's own single game gaining record set earlier in the season against San Jose State.

Top 10 Teams Listed

Following are the top 10 teams in each offensive category:

Total offense—Nevada, 533 yards average per game by running and passing; Army, 42.6; Miami (O), 413.2; Missouri, 403.7; Maryland, 398.2; Notre Dame, 397.7.

Rushing—Army, 354.2 yards per game average; Texas Mines, 350.7; Notre Dame, 333.8; Maryland, 293.7; Missouri, 290.3; California, 290.1.

Heafner Turns In 69 For Opening Round

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 2 (AP) — Three of the longest drives in the golfing business and two comparative strangers to the weekly tournament trail—one of them in amateur—took the honors today in the first round of the 46th North and South Open Golf Tournament.

Heading the par-busting brigade over the long and trying No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club were Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., Glen Teal of Charlotte, N. C., and Julius Boros of Bridgeport, Conn., with 68's, Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, with 69 and Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with 70.

Harbert, one of the longest hitters in tournament golf, and the huge Heafner, another long driver, are well known to golf followers. So is Snead, whose nick name of "Slamming Sam" is well earned.

Boros, the Connecticut amateur champion, never has figured in any big tournament although he led the nation in qualifying for the national amateur this year. Teal, an intermittent follower of the tournament trail, hails from Jacksonville, Fla., but has been assistant to Henry Lindner at the Charlotte Country Club for about six months. He left that job a couple of weeks ago and now is looking for a connection.

Back of Snead, five players shared sixth place with one-under-par 71's, among them defending champion Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y. The others were Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., whose few tournament triumphs include the Augusta Masters event; Harry T. Nettlebludt of Avon, Conn., Jackie Burke of White Plains, N. Y., and Joe Zarsardt of Greensboro, N. C.

Basketball Officials Meet At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2 (AP) — The Maryland Board of Approved Basketball Officials will hold its annual rules interpretation meeting here Thursday night.

A. Paul Menton, commissioner of officials for the Mason-Dixon Conference and the Maryland Scholastic Association, will preside at the meeting, scheduled for 8 p. m. in the McCormick and Company auditorium. Coaches and players have been invited.

Old Jinx Returns

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Of course theres nothing in that old "13" jinx, but the Yale Bulldogs aren't quite so sure. In 76 years of football, the Elis played 12 games on Oct. 9 before this year and won them all. In the thirteenth contest on that date, against Columbia recently, Yale dropped a 34-28 decision.

Captains All

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Three of Michigan State College's football coaches captained their grid teams while in college. Head Coach Clarence (Biggie) Munn led Minnesota in 1931; Backfield Coach Forest Evashevski captained the 1940 Michigan team, and "Duffy" Daugherty, line coach, skippered Syracuse in 1939.

Cornell Grid Coach Favors Unlimited Substitutions

James Made 296 Lineup Changes Against Lions

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP) — A suggestion that substitutions in college football be limited was poohpoohed today by Cornell University's head coach, George K. (Lefty) James, who is credited with making 296 lineup changes in defeating Columbia last Saturday.

James said he didn't know how Phelan or any other professional football coach would "enter into the discussion anyway."

The success of the Cornell team, James observed, "has been due largely to free substituting." Cornell, stopped by Army for its only loss of the season, uses both offensive and defensive units.

"I had an idea," James said, "that he would hear something of this sooner or later because certain coaches either didn't originate the idea or didn't get into the act early."

"I don't know who the man was," he told the New York sports writers, "but after I found out what he was doing I became interested and followed his figuring."

Phelan said the man came up with a total of 296 changes, and that his own figures for more than half the game agreed with those of his neighbor.

"I think the rules committee should change the rule and permit only three changes at a time," Phelan commented. However, he would permit wholesale substitutions at the start of each quarter.

Maryland's Harriers Beat Virginia Tech

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 2 (AP)—The University of Maryland's undefeated cross country team won a close meet with Virginia Tech here today, 21-39.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (INS)—We need a new set of football rules. The code as it stands is a joke. Some of the rules serve only to make strong teams stronger at the expense of weak teams.

Any code that strengthens the strong and weakens the weak must be bad.

Jimmy told of a game in which one team made nearly 300 substitutions. That figure at first glance appears fantastic. But if you've seen any games this year or listened to any on the radio you will realize it is true.

Some teams, like Army and Michigan, overloaded with great talent, use two teams—one for offense, one for defense. Every time the ball changes hands in go 11 new men.

Perhaps we need more subs these days, as Lou Little, Columbia's coach, suggests. But surely the game hasn't speeded up to such an extent that we need them in wholesale lots.

Radio men know their jobs. They are trained observers. They know the players as well as the coaches. They are in a fine position to report what goes on.

Even they tell you frankly they can't keep track of the constant shifting of players in groups between plays. As for the fan, he is simply bewildered.

Imagine you are playing tackle against a man of about equal class. You bang each other hard on even terms for a few minutes. You are both beginning to feel the strain.

He is with a powerhouse team—three and four deep everywhere. You are with a weak team. There's no good sub for you. So what happens?

Out goes your opponent and in comes a fresh man just as good as the man who left. Now you are beginning to take a beating. Then out goes that second man and in comes a third.

Your tongue is hanging out. You're worn to a frazzle. But no relief for you. About the time you are ready to drop in comes the first man you faced, fresh and ready to go again.

Now you find him shoving you all over the lot although you held him even when you both were fresh. Is that an even contest? Phooey. You know it isn't.

As the rules stand now, they should advertise that three or four great teams from a big football powerhouse will play one good little team from a smaller school.

Terps To Battle South Carolina Eleven Saturday

Columbia Is Scene Of Conference Tilt

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The University of Maryland goes back into the Southern Conference once again this week when they face the University of South Carolina in football at Columbia. This is the second straight year that the Terps have faced the Gamecocks at their home roost, last seasons score being, 19-13 in favor of the Old Liners.

Coach Jim Tatum of the Maryland '11 was highly pleased over the showing of his aggregation last Friday night at Miami, when they scored a 27-13 win over the Hurricanes. The Terps took to the air and on the ground more like veterans, than they had before all season. In 63 carrying attempts they collected a total of 303 net yards. In 18 passing attempts they completed 10. Vic Turyn, ace signal caller for the College Parkers, was considered the standout performer with a net gain of 69 yards in 9 tries and a total of 10 completed passes in 17 attempts.

Earl Roth found his old kicking ability with an average of 41.1 yards per boot. This was the first T formation team that the Tatum coached aggregation had faced all year and they showed up well.

One of the highlight performances of the game was by Ted Betz, 3rd string end from Dundalk, Maryland. Betz, a sophomore, scored the Terps first TD and collected 2 other passes for a total of 35 yards. Bob Dean emerged as a new extra point kicker sending 3 conversions through the cross-bars.

In facing the Gamecock aggregation this week, the Terps will be meeting one of the sleeper teams of the Southern Conference. Coached by Rex Enright, who learned his football at Notre Dame, the S. C. '11' has dropped decisions to Tulane, Clemson, and West Virginia, while scoring wins over Newberry and Furman.

The Terps will stage an intra-squad scrimmage this week on Wednesday and depart for Columbia by chartered Capital Airliner on Friday.

Tiger General Manager Billy Evans announced Leibold's appointment. The Tigers purchased Toledo a year ago, but will operate the club for the first time in 1949.

The new Toledo boss has spent the last 14 years as a manager in the Boston Red Sox farm system, never finishing out of the first division until the 1948 season. He won one pennant and three playoffs during five years with the Colonels.

Chicago's Cards Pile Up Yardage

Average Gains Run 400 Yards Per Game

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2 (AP) — Jimmy Conzelman's explosive Chicago Cardinals are making a pretty persuasive case for themselves as one of the greatest offensive football teams of all time.

1. Gained a grand total of 2,506 yards—an average of better than 400 yards per game.
2. Piled up 1,387 on the ground, an average of more than 200 per game.
3. Passed for 1,108 yards, an average of almost 200 per game.
4. Scored 194 points, more than 30 in each contest played.
5. Tallied 26 touchdowns, an average of nearly five trips into the enemy zone per game.

Each of these marks is the best in the league, according to statistics released today, with the exception of passing yardage. Here the Cardinals trail the Los Angeles Rams (1,168) and Washington Redskins (1,407).

The Chicago Bears—currently tied with the Cardinals for the NFL western division lead — are deadlocked with the Cardinals in total touchdowns at 26 each.

BALTIMORE BULLETS RETAIN 11 PLAYERS

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2 (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets got down to the Basketball Association of America player limit of 11 today by optioning two and releasing one.

Oran McKinney from last year's Western Kentucky team was released and Dough Holcomb from Wisconsin and Howard Sanders from Miami U., O., optioned to Scranton in the American League.

John Mahnken was obtained in a trade with the Washington Capitols and Leo Mogus from Youngstown The pro newcomers are Walt Budko from Columbia, Darrell Brown from Humboldt State, Danny Kraus of Georgetown, and Herbie Krautblatt of Rider. Al Lucas was signed a free agent.

The Bullets open the season against the Minneapolis Lakers, champions of the National Basketball League last season. Minneapolis is one of four teams which joined the BAA this season.

Officials Named For AHS-LaSalle Grid Tilt Friday

Baltimore Trio Will Work At Hagerstown

Estel "Eck" Miers, John Angellatta and C. William Spangler have been selected as referee, umpire and head linesman for the 20th football game between Allegany High School and LaSalle High School Friday night at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Coach Robert Pence last night announced that Bill Sluss, right halfback of the Campers has been ailing with a charley horse but he's hopeful his backfield star will be in action on Friday. Donald Dicken, who has been alternating at the halfback post with Sluss, is lost to the AHS team for the remainder of the season due to his undergoing an appendectomy last week prior to the Campers' game with Martinsburg.

St. Patrick's will play Allegany in a Knights of Columbus Youth Program football game at 6:15 p. m. Friday night at the stadium.

Coach Bill Hahn of Fort Hill High School last night announced that the Sentinels' game with Hagerstown Friday will be staged at Hagerstown Municipal Stadium at 8 o'clock and not on the high school field.

Fort Hill's band and several bus loads of rooters will make the trip in addition to the football squad of 37, including coaches, managers and players.

The announcement was made by the school's president, Dr. C. I. Pontius, who said the action was "because the record of our team to date has not been impressive."

Torchy Peden Quits Six-Day Bike Race

Grind Proves Too Much For Veteran

CHICAGO, Nov. 2 (INS)—Torchy Peden of Vancouver, B. C., who at 43 had won more six-day bike races than any other man in history, resigned from the current Chicago race today as the grind passed its 50th hour.

Peden, who previously had won 38 six-day grinds, apparently was unable to keep up the pace. He and his partner, Stanley Bransgrove of Melbourne, Australia, were last in the standings at the time of his withdrawal. Peden was the sixth rider in a starting field of 30 to pull out of the race, leaving 12 teams still competing.

Bransgrove then teamed with Ted Smith, former three-time national amateur champion from Buffalo, N. Y., whose original partner, Benny Mangano of Brooklyn, had withdrawn a few hours earlier.

After 651 miles, with 12 teams still in the race, the Italian-Canadian tandem of Moretti and Cyr and the Belgian team of De Corte and Maelbranque were tied for the lead in laps.

Childress Seeking Fight

By C. V. BURNS

If statistics on games played to date by the unbeaten and untied football teams of Fort Hill and Allegany mean anything the annual Thanksgiving Day contest between the Scarlet and White and the Blue and White has all the earmarks of a toss-up.

Thus far Bill Hahn's warriors have bagged eight wins while Bob Pence's aggregation has seven triumphs to its credit.

Both teams are expected to enter the November 25 games with 9-0 records.

Fort Hill has scored 273 points, Allegany 264.

In yardage gained rushing, Fort Hill's average for eight games is 287 yards against 277 for AHS in seven contests.

Allegany has completed 48 per cent of its forward passes while the Hilltoppers' average is 45 per cent.

The Campobello eleven has averaged 55 yards per game on aerials compared to 54 for the Hahnmen.

Fort Hill holds a decided edge in the matter of scoring points after touchdowns, boasting an average of 77 per cent to an even 60 for A.H.S.

Allegany has scored seven of its touchdowns via the air and Fort Hill relied on overhead thrusts to mark up a half dozen six-pointers.

Fort Hill has been penalized an average of 45 yards per game while the Campers have been set back 36 yards per contest.

And the teams are tied in total touchdowns — each having scored forty.

	Fort Hill	Allegany
Total Points scored	273	264
Games Won	8	7
Touchdowns scored	40	40
Safety scored	1	0
(*) Tries for points converted	31-40	34-40
Passes Tried	44	35
Passes Completed	20	17
Yards Gained Passing	455	390
Total first downs	107	92
Yards Gained Rushing	2,300	1,940
Touchdowns scored on passes	6	7
Total Yards Lost on penalties	360	255

(*) Burke has scored 29 extra points and Mason and Tucker one each for Fort Hill. Don Dicken and Schramm have scored 12 points each for Allegany.

Frank Wiener, of Philadelphia, who served as chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission from 1926 through 1931, says that inadequate ring padding has caused more ring tragedies in the last three years than ever before.

He points out that none of the deaths resulted from blows inflicted by fighters' opponents. In every case the injuries resulted when a boxer's head struck inadequately padded ring floors.

Wiener urges that padding on ring floors be increased from 1 to 1¼ inches thickness as a safety measure.

The former chairman also said the Keystone State commission should enforce its rule barring promoters from staging fights involving boxers in which they are interested. We think boxing would be better off if this rule were enforced in every state.

That's when the famed triumvirate of Cash, Curry and Huddle held the coaching reins at AHS.

It's Rev. Max Huddle now and he's regarded as quite a speaker at training schools conducted by the Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Mr. Huddle served as Navy chaplain during the war with 21 months' overseas duty at Bougainville, Guadalcanal, Admiralty Islands and New Caledonia in the South Pacific in 1943-45. He was a member of the 71st Seabee Battalion.

His brother, the Rev. Carl Huddle, is Lutheran minister at Williamsport, Md.

He tips the beam between 140 and 145 pounds and he says "I'm in good shape."

Jimmy's last appearance in a local ring was on November 24, 1947, when he was stopped by Bill Mann in a sizzling match that ended in 41 seconds of the third round. It really was a knockdown and dragout affair while it lasted.

"I still think I can lick that guy Mann," Childress declared.

Zivic Hopes To Land Bouts In The South

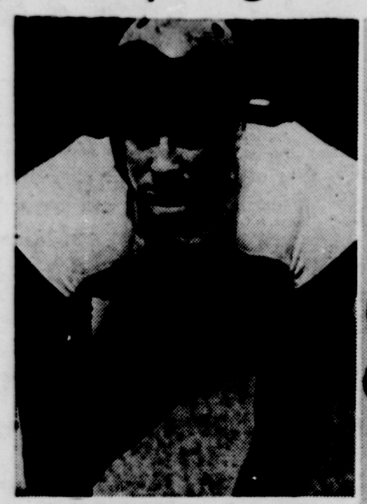
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2 (AP) — Fritzie Zivic, the battered ex-welterweight boxing champion who has quit the ring at least three times for good, today bustled about with plans for a barnstorming fight tour.

Zivic, now 35 and owner of one of the most fantastically curved noses in ring history, hopes to take off in a couple weeks in a rented trailer. He'll head southward, seeking fights wherever they can be found.

Zivic said his first fight will be in Macon, Ga., with Al Reid, 148-pound South Carolinian.

The veteran of more than 300 professional fights, Fritzie won the welterweight title in 1940 from Henry Armstrong. He lost the crown two years later to Red Cochrane.

Grid Spotlight Shifts To East As Penn-Penn State Clash



Chuck Bednarik — Penn center

Pete Elliott — Michigan back

Ernie Kovatch — Indiana end

TOPPED BY THE MEETING of Penn State and Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, the grid slate for Saturday, Nov. 6, is a heavy one as usual. Other stellar attractions include the clashes of Princeton and Harvard, Dartmouth and Columbia, Oklahoma and Missouri, California and U.C.L.A., Army and Stanford, Michigan and Navy, Minnesota-Purdue and Notre Dame-Indiana.

Gil Stephenson, Southern Comet, Stars For Army

Fullback Makes Cadets Forget Glenn, "Doc"

By GAYLE TALBOT

WEST POINT, Nov. 2 (AP)—There is a growing feeling around here that Gil Stephenson, a thin-shanked fullback from Columbus, Ga., is about to make the Cadets forget Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

They are waiting only to see if he continues his phenomenal ball-carrying against Stanford at the Yankee Stadium this Saturday and against Penn the following week before they go overboard on the Southern Comet.

Stephenson, a yearling with only six varsity games behind him, really looks like something special. He pops through an opposing line like a rabbit out of the underbrush, and he is harder to get down than a greased shoat.

He has carried 103 times—exclusively through the middle—for 662 yards, or an average of 6.4 yards. Against Virginia Tech last week he averaged over eight yards, though two fine runs of 23 and 13 yards were called back.

Stanford will find it as difficult to understand where Stephenson gets his driving power as it will to flag him down. He stands an even six feet and weighs only 181, yet as he slams and wrenches his way through the secondary he gives the impression he is rocket propelled.

Up to now, Coach Earl Blaik has let Bobby Stuart, Jim Cain and his other halfbacks turn the wings while Stephenson concentrated on the quick-openers inside the tackles.

Blaik says his present team is much better than last year's, and even better than the '45 outfit, on which Davis and Blanchard played. Up to now, the Army mentor is not classing it above his all-conquering array of '46, when "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. Outside" reached their fullest flower.

GRID WHIZ — Stan Heath, quarterback of the undefeated University of Nevada team, continues to make All-American news as he smashes the all-time collegiate offensive record set by Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian and tied by Bud Schwenk of Washington U. — with several games still to play. Heath, a fugitive from the University of Wisconsin, already has piled up to a total of 1,655 yards in six games to crack the former mark of 1,457. Heath appears to be a sure bet for All-American honors.

Reno Eleven Sets Average Of 533 Yards

Mustangs Complete 62 Out Of 94 Passes

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nevada, Army and Southern Methodist are running away from the field in the race for offensive honors among the nation's major football teams, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau discloses.

Nevada, featuring the amazing throwing arm of Stan Heath, already is virtually "in" as 1948 champion both in passing offense and total offense. The Reno eleven boasts an awesome average gain of 533.3 yards in six games.

Set Pace In Rushing

Army's powerful team, ranked No. 4 nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, leads all rivals in the potency of its rushing attack. In six games Cadet ball carriers led by Gil Stephenson, have ground out an average of 354.2 yards per contest.

Southern Methodist leads the pack in passing efficiency, having clicked on 62 out of 94 tosses for a lofty percentage of .660. The Mustangs stand second in touchdown passes, with 14 to Nevada's 22.

Nevada's 710 - yard spree (268 rushing, 442 passing) against Oklahoma City last Saturday broke by two yards the Wolfpack's own single game gaining record set earlier in the season against San Jose State.

Top 10 Teams Listed

Following are the top 10 teams in each offensive category:

Total offense—Nevada, 533 yards average per game by running and passing; Army, 42.6; Miami (O), 413.2; Missouri, 403.7; Maryland, 398.2; Notre Dame, 397.7.

Rushing—Army, 354.2 yards per game average; Texas Mines, 350.7; Notre Dame, 333.8; Maryland, 293.7; Missouri, 290.3; California, 290.1.

Heafner Turns In 69 For Opening Round

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 2 (AP) — Three of the longest drives in the golfing business and two comparative strangers to the weekly tournament trail—one of them in amateur—took the honors today in the first round of the 46th North and South Open Golf Tournament.

Heading the par-busting brigade over the long and trying No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club were Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., Glen Teal of Charlotte, N. C., and Julius Boros of Bridgeport, Conn., with 68's, Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, with 69 and Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with 70.

Harbert, one of the longest hitters in tournament golf, and the huge Heafner, another long driver, are well known to golf followers. So is Snead, whose nick name of "Slamming Sam" is well earned.

Boros, the Connecticut amateur champion, never has figured in any big tournament although he led the nation in qualifying for the national amateur this year. Teal, an intermittent follower of the tournament trail, hails from Jacksonville, Fla., but has been assistant to Henry Lindner at the Charlotte Country Club for about six months. He left that job a couple of weeks ago and now is looking for a connection.

Back of Snead, five players shared sixth place with one-under-par 71's, among them defending champion Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y. The others were Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., whose few tournament triumphs include the Augusta Masters event; Harry T. Nettlebludt of Avon, Conn., Jackie Burke of White Plains, N. Y., and Joe Zarsardt of Greensboro, N. C.

Basketball Officials Meet At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2 (AP) — The Maryland Board of Approved Basketball Officials will hold its annual rules interpretation meeting here Thursday night.

A. Paul Menton, commissioner of officials for the Mason-Dixon Conference and the Maryland Scholastic Association, will preside at the meeting, scheduled for 8 p. m. in the McCormick and Company auditorium. Coaches and players have been invited.

Old Jinx Returns

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Of course theres nothing in that old "13" jinx, but the Yale Bulldogs aren't quite so sure. In 76 years of football, the Elis played 12 games on Oct. 9 before this year and won them all. In the thirteenth contest on that date, against Columbia recently, Yale dropped a 34-28 decision.

Captains All

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Three of Michigan State College's football coaches captained their grid teams while in college. Head Coach Clarence (Biggie) Munn led Minnesota in 1931; Backfield Coach Forest Evashevski captained the 1940 Michigan team, and "Duffy" Daugherty, line coach, skippered Syracuse in 1939.

Cornell Grid Coach Favors Unlimited Substitutions

James Made 296 Lineup Changes Against Lions

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP) — A suggestion that substitutions in college football be limited was poohpoohed today by Cornell University's head coach, George K. (Lefty) James, who is credited with making 296 lineup changes in defeating Columbia last Saturday.

James said he didn't know how Phelan or any other professional football coach would "enter into the discussion anyway."

The success of the Cornell team, James observed, "has been due largely to free substituting." Cornell, stopped by Army for its only loss of the season, uses both offensive and defensive units.

"I had an idea," James said, "that he would hear something of this sooner or later because certain coaches either didn't originate the idea or didn't get into the act early."

"I don't know who the man was," he told the New York sports writers, "but after I found out what he was doing I became interested and followed his figuring."

Phelan said the man came up with a total of 296 changes, and that his own figures for more than half the game agreed with those of his neighbor.

"I think the rules committee should change the rule and permit only three changes at a time," Phelan commented. However, he would permit wholesale substitutions at the start of each quarter.

Maryland's Harriers Beat Virginia Tech

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 2 (AP)—The University of Maryland's undefeated cross country team won a close meet with Virginia Tech here today, 21-39.

Bob Palmer, Maryland ace, led the field by 200 yards with the time of 20 minutes and 38 seconds. Jim Urbarger of Maryland was second in 21 minutes and 37 seconds.

Curtis Shelton and Bev Middleton, of Virginia Tech tied for third place, finishing in 22 minutes and four seconds. Gene Greer and Lindy Kehoe, of Maryland, tied for fifth.

The defeat was the first of the year for Virginia Tech. Maryland is defending Southern Conference champion.

Terps To Battle South Carolina Eleven Saturday

Columbia Is Scene Of Conference Tilt

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The University of Maryland goes back into the Southern Conference once again this week when they face the University of South Carolina in football at Columbia. This is the second straight year that the Terps have faced the Gamecocks at their home roost, last seasons score being, 19-13 in favor of the Old Liners.

Coach Jim Tatum of the Maryland '11 was highly pleased over the showing of his aggregation last Friday night at Miami, when they scored a 27-13 win over the Hurricanes. The Terps took to the air and on the ground more like veterans, than they had before all season. In 63 carrying attempts they collected a total of 303 net yards. In 18 passing attempts they completed 10. Vic Turyn, ace signal caller for the College Parkers, was considered the standout performer with a net gain of 69 yards in 9 tries and a total of 10 completed passes in 17 attempts.

Earl Roth found his old kicking ability with an average of 41.1 yards per boot. This was the first T formation team that the Tatum coached aggregation had faced all year and they showed up well.

One of the highlight performances of the game was by Ted Betz, 3rd string end from Dundalk, Maryland. Betz, a sophomore, scored the Terps first TD and collected 2 other passes for a total of 35 yards. Bob Dean emerged as a new extra point kicker sending 3 conversions through the cross-bars.

In facing the Gamecock aggregation this week, the Terps will be meeting one of the sleeper teams of the Southern Conference. Coached by Rex Enright, who learned his football at Notre Dame, the S. C. '11 has dropped decisions to Tulane, Clemson, and West Virginia, while scoring wins over Newberry and Furman.

The Terps will stage an intra-squad scrimmage this week on Wednesday and depart for Columbia by chartered Capital Airliner on Friday.

LEIBOLD TO PILOT TOLEDO MUD HENS

DETROIT, Nov. 2 (INS) — The Detroit Tigers today named Harry Leibold manager of the Toledo baseball club in the American Association.

Tiger General Manager Billy Evans announced Leibold's appointment. The Tigers purchased Toledo a year ago, but will operate the club for the first time in 1949.

The new Toledo boss has spent the last 14 years as a manager in the Boston Red Sox farm system, never finishing out of the first division until the 1948 season. He won one pennant and three playoffs during five years with the Colonels.

Leafs Battle Stars

CHICAGO, Nov. 2 (INS) — The Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, face the best the rest of the National Hockey League can muster at Chicago Stadium tomorrow night in the loop's second annual all-star game.

A crowd of more than 18,000 is expected to jam the stadium.

Average Gains Run 400 Yards Per Game

2. Piled up 1,387 on the ground, an average of more than 200 per game.
3. Passed for 1,108 yards, an average of almost 200 per game.
4. Scored 194 points, more than 30 in each contest played.
5. Tallied 26 touchdowns, an average of nearly five trips into the enemy zone per game.

Each of these marks is the best in the league, according to statistics released today, with the exception of passing yardage. Here the Cardinals trail the Los Angeles Rams (1,168) and Washington Redskins (1,407).

BALTIMORE BULLETS RETAIN 11 PLAYERS

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2 (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets got down to the Basketball Association of America player limit of 11 today by optioning two and releasing one.

Oran McKinney from last year's Western Kentucky team was released and Dough Holcomb from Wisconsin and Howard Sanders from Miami U., O., optioned to Scranton in the American League.

John Mahnken was obtained in a trade with the Washington Capitols and Leo Mogus from Youngstown The pro newcomers are Walt Budko from Columbia, Darrell Brown from Humboldt State, Danny Kraus of Georgetown, and Herbie Krautblatt of Rider. Al Lucas was signed a free agent.

The Bullets open the season against the Minneapolis Lakers, champions of the National Basketball League last season. Minneapolis is one of four teams which joined the BAA this season.

Armed Will Essay Comeback In Florida

Paul Ebelhardt, manager of the Calumet breeding farm, confirmed from Lexington, Ky., today that the eight-year-old racer will be blistered tomorrow and shipped to Hialeah later in the month to be put back into training.

Officials Named For AHS-LaSalle Grid Tilt Friday

Baltimore Trio Will Work At Hagerstown

Estel "Eck" Miers, John Angellatta and C. William Spangler have been selected as referee, umpire and head linesman for the 20th football game between Allegany High School and LaSalle High School Friday night at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Coach Robert Pence last night announced that Bill Sluss, right halfback of the Campers has been ailing with a charley horse but he's hopeful his backfield star will be in action on Friday. Donald Dicken, who has been alternating at the halfback post with Sluss, is lost to the AHS team for the remainder of the season due to his undergoing an appendectomy last week prior to the Campers' game with Martinsburg.

St. Patrick's will play Allegany in a Knights of Columbus Youth Program football game at 6:15 p. m. Friday night at the stadium.

Coach Bill Hahn of Fort Hill High School last night announced that the Sentinels' game with Hagerstown Friday will be staged at Hagerstown Municipal Stadium at 8 o'clock and not on the high school field.

Fort Hill's band and several bus loads of rooters will make the trip in addition to the football squad of 37, including coaches, managers and players.

Carlton Shore is not expected to play and Ivan Abe, second string halfback, may be missing from the lineup on account of an abscessed tooth, Coach Hahn stated.

Tulane Gridders Play Cavaliers Next Year

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 2 (AP)—Tulane University has been added to the University of Virginia football schedule for 1949 and 1950.

Captain Norton G. Pritchett, athletic director, said the Cavaliers' football schedules for the next two seasons have not been completed, but that games with Tulane on a home-and-home basis have been arranged.

Tulane will come here November 19, 1949, and the Cavaliers will go to New Orleans for the return engagement, Nov. 18, 1950.

Pritchett also said the Cavaliers will meet Duke's Blue Devils here October 28, 1950.

Tulsa Is Withdrawn As Delta Bowl Host

The announcement was made by the school's president, Dr. C. I. Pontius, who said the action was "because the record of our team to date has not been impressive."

Chosen for the game before the season started on its prospects of fielding a strong squad, Tulsa lost five straight games before it gained a 14-14 tie with the University of Wichita last Saturday.

Torchy Peden Quits Six-Day Bike Race

Grind Proves Too Much For Veteran

CHICAGO, Nov. 2 (INS)—Torchy Peden of Vancouver, B. C., who at 43 had won more six-day bike races than any other man in history, resigned from the current Chicago race today as the grind passed its 50th hour.

Peden, who previously had won 38 six-day grinds, apparently was unable to keep up the pace. He and his partner, Stanley Bransgrove of Melbourne, Australia, were last in the standings at the time of his withdrawal. Peden was the sixth rider in a starting field of 30 to pull out of the race, leaving 12 teams still competing.

Bransgrove then teamed with Ted Smith, former three-time national amateur champion from Buffalo, N. Y., whose original partner, Benny Mangano of Brooklyn, had withdrawn a few hours earlier.

After 651 miles, with 12 teams still in the race, the Italian-Canadian tandem of Moretti and Cyr and the Belgian team of De Corte and Maelbranque were tied for the lead in laps.

SHUFFLEBOARD LOOP LEADERS WILL MEET

Two of the five teams tied for first place in the National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County are scheduled to clash tomorrow night when the Century Athletic Club of Frostburg meets the Viaduct Inn at the latter place at 8:30 o'clock. Each team has won five games and lost one.

In other matches set for tomorrow the Cumberland V.F.W. visits Stadium Inn at Frostburg, the Owls play hosts to the Goodfellowship Club, Purple Heart visits South End Republican Club, the Amvets invade Cresaptown Tavern and the Knights of Columbus, 1947-48 champions, play the last place American Legion. The standings:

Just Between Us

Jealous Fiance Will Prove A Poor Risk For Any Girl

By NANCY MOTTRAM

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I just became engaged to the boy I've gone steady with for two years. We used to have a wonderful time together, but since I received my diamond, I see him less and less. Instead of dating several times a week, we now go out only once or twice, and though he calls me every day, he talks for only a few minutes and then hangs up. I've noticed that he has become increasingly jealous and he has accused me of dating other boys the nights I don't see him. I love him and yet I don't know whether I can put up with this much longer. Please help me solve this."

Nancy Mottram

(A) From his actions, you'll have to judge what your life will be like if you do marry him. Before you take any steps, you'd better weigh the situation carefully. He may change his present manner and he may not. Don't guess or gamble on a matter as serious as this. It's your decision—but before you make it, think it over carefully. Your future happiness is involved, and you can't afford to make a mistake.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Up until three weeks ago, I had a best friend. Now we aren't even speaking. It happened this way. We both began to like the same fellow, and although he never dated either of us or paid one of us more attention than the other, we argued about him. She insisted that he cared more for her and I disagreed. Finally, we had such a furious argument that we stopped seeing each other entirely. We still haven't heard from the boy—as a matter of fact, he's dating another girl. I think our fight is very silly, and I'd like to be friends again, but I have my pride too. What should I do?"

(A) Before you stop to think about your pride, go over to her house. You might start off by asking if she's heard this latest news and then maybe she'll see how silly it is to carry your fight any further. The cause has disappeared, and in the future, you'll know that no lad is worth a broken friendship.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I invited a boy to a school dance, and we started to date regularly after that. He came over a lot, and called me almost every night. Although he never said anything about going steady I took it for granted that we were, and so did all my friends. Then, one night, my brother saw him with another girl. He's called me since then, but I refused to go out with him. I wish we could get back together, but he hasn't offered to explain. Please tell me what to do."

A) This time, you're in the wrong. If he's never asked you to be his one and only girl, there's no reason why he can't date others—and that goes for you too. You're making yourself unhappy by refusing to see him when you haven't any solid reason. He hasn't anything to explain because he hasn't broken any promise. If you really want to date him, go ahead. Perhaps, one of these days, he'll mention the word steady, but until then, don't try to treat him as your own private property.

If you have a problem at school or at home, write Miss Mottram for her help.

Nancy Mottram

(A) From his actions, you'll have to judge what your life will be like if you do marry him. Before you take any steps, you'd better weigh the situation carefully. He may change his present manner and he may not. Don't guess or gamble on a matter as serious as this. It's your decision—but before you make it, think it over carefully. Your future happiness is involved, and you can't afford to make a mistake.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Up until three weeks ago, I had a best friend. Now we aren't even speaking. It happened this way. We both began to like the same fellow, and although he never dated either of us or paid one of us more attention than the other, we argued about him. She insisted that he cared more for her and I disagreed. Finally, we had such a furious argument that we stopped seeing each other entirely. We still haven't heard from the boy—as a matter of fact, he's dating another girl. I think our fight is very silly, and I'd like to be friends again, but I have my pride too. What should I do?"

(A) Before you stop to think about your pride, go over to her house. You might start off by asking if she's heard this latest news and then maybe she'll see how silly it is to carry your fight any further. The cause has disappeared, and in the future, you'll know that no lad is worth a broken friendship.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I invited a boy to a school dance, and we started to date regularly after that. He came over a lot, and called me almost every night. Although he never said anything about going steady I took it for granted that we were, and so did all my friends. Then, one night, my brother saw him with another girl. He's called me since then, but I refused to go out with him. I wish we could get back together, but he hasn't offered to explain. Please tell me what to do."

(A) This time, you're in the wrong. If he's never asked you to be his one until then, don't try to treat him and only girl, there's no reason why he can't date others—and that goes for you too. You're making yourself unhappy by refusing to see him when you haven't any solid reason. He hasn't anything to explain because he hasn't broken any promise. If you really want to date him, go ahead. Perhaps, one of these days, he'll mention the word steady, but as your own private property.

If you have a problem at school or at home, write Miss Mottram for her help.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2—(INS)—Hal Roach is the lucky boy who was able to get Thomas Costain's "The Moneyman." Through an arrangement with Arthur Lyons, who had the first option, it now comes into Hal Jr's possession. It is estimated that 300,000 copies of "The Moneyman" were sold and that it equalled the sale of Costain's popular "Black Rose."

Susan Hayward

This is by far the most important production young Mr. Roach has attempted. He tells me he is negotiating with several stars but that it is a little early yet to make any announcements. "The director," said Hal, "depends upon the actors we get."

I hear through the grapevine that he wants either Louis Hayward or Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., with Ida Lupino for the girl.

• — • — •

I forgot how young Anne Baxter is until she asked me to tell her about Clara Bow, whose movie career happened before Anne's time. Miss Baxter is playing a Clara Bow character in "You're My Everything" at 20th Century-Fox.

"You know, when I went as Clara Bow to the photographers ball, I studied a photograph of her to get my dress, the haircut and all just right," said Anne. "But I am interested to hear all about her as an actress and a person."

I had heard from vaarious sources that Anne and John Hodiak were expecting a baby, so I put the question straight to Anne at Cesar Romero's party. Anne laughed and said, "No, it's not true. I wish it were."

• — • — •

Susan Hayward used to lament that she wasn't getting any kind of break in movies. Now she has so many offers, she doesn't know what to do with them all.

It looks as if 20th Century-Fox will get her as co-star in "The Eastside Story" with Edward Robinson—he's the male star and not John Garfield. Susie is reading the script, and if she accepts—and Walter Wanger agrees to lend her—it will be her first time on the 20th lot.

'I hear "Eastside" is a good story, and it will be produced by Sol Siegel with Joseph Mankiewicz directing.

• — • — •

Barbara Stanwyck received a very funny letter from Bob Taylor. The day he landed in London the papers carried a story about Mr. Robert Taylor, who became the father of quadruplets. He comes from Middlesex. His picture was side by side with Mr. Robert Taylor of Hollywood, who was not the father of quadruplets.

Barbara tells me she misses Bob so much that if he doesn't hurry back she'll have to go to England to see him.

I am sorry that Kathryn Grayson and Johnny Johnston are seriously talking divorce. At first I paid little attention to their parting. Matrimonial breakups and reconciliations are an old habit of Kathryn's. When she was married to John Shelton they parted and reconciled eight times.

But Johnny Johnston talked very seriously to me and believes that he and Kathryn, who tried so hard to marry before they were free, are better apart.

"I have done nothing with my own career. "I am going to Las Vegas to keep an engagement and then to New York to try to get a stage play. Both Kathy and I have tempers but she is so highstrung I try to control my own moods."

Earlier, Kathryn said Johnny had made her a golf widow. Both said the baby had nothing to do with their separation.

Jane Wyman and Lew Ayres were partners at a small dinner Mrs. Jack Warner gave for Prince Peter and Princess Irene Sunday night.

Their royal highnesses arrived very late and full of apologies. They are house guests of the Charles Skourases, and when they went home to dress after an afternoon at the beach, they found the house locked and the servants out. Finally, after an hour's delay, they managed to locate their host.

Errol Flynn, all by himself asked me to give him the blame for his trouble with his wife, Nora Eddington. "She's the greatest girl I ever knew," he said. Erroll sat next to the attractive Princess Irene and turned his charm on her.

Blue geese are gluttinous feeders. The young gorge so steadily they develop more rapidly than the young of other geese.

FRESH BLOOD A MUST FOR FREE ENERGY

Do you feel like you are tied to a drag everytime you try to do something? If so, don't let a low blood count hold you down when you may release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2—(INS)—Hal Roach is the lucky boy who was able to get Thomas Costain's "The Moneyman." Through an arrangement with Arthur Lyons, who had the first option, it now comes into Hal Jr's possession. It is estimated that 300,000 copies of "The Moneyman" were sold and that it equalled the sale of Costain's popular "Black Rose."

Susan Hayward

This is by far the most important production young Mr. Roach has attempted. He tells me he is negotiating with several stars but that it is a little early yet to make any announcements. "The director," said Hal, "depends upon the actors we get."

I hear through the grapevine that he wants either Louis Hayward or Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., with Ida Lupino for the girl.

• — • — •

I forgot how young Anne Baxter is until she asked me to tell her about Clara Bow, whose movie career happened before Anne's time. Miss Baxter is playing a Clara Bow character in "You're My Everything" at 20th Century-Fox.

"You know, when I went as Clara Bow to the photographers ball, I studied a photograph of her to get my dress, the haircut and all just right," said Anne. "But I am interested to hear all about her as an actress and a person."

I had heard from vaarious sources that Anne and John Hodiak were expecting a baby, so I put the question straight to Anne at Cesar Romero's party. Anne laughed and said, "No, it's not true. I wish it were."

• — • — •

Susan Hayward used to lament that she wasn't getting any kind of break in movies. Now she has so many offers, she doesn't know what to do with them all.

It looks as if 20th Century-Fox will get her as co-star in "The Eastside Story" with Edward Robinson—he's the male star and not John Garfield. Susie is reading the script, and if she accepts—and Walter Wanger agrees to lend her—it will be her first time on the 20th lot.

'I hear "Eastside" is a good story, and it will be produced by Sol Siegel with Joseph Mankiewicz directing.

• — • — •

Barbara Stanwyck received a very funny letter from Bob Taylor. The day he landed in London the papers carried a story about Mr. Robert Taylor, who became the father of quadruplets. He comes from Middlesex. His picture was side by side with Mr. Robert Taylor of Hollywood, who was not the father of quadruplets.

Barbara tells me she misses Bob so much that if he doesn't hurry back she'll have to go to England to see him.

Program Dealing With Movies On Radio Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Next on the documentary list of CBS—that will be Wednesday night—is an hour about the movies. Going on at 10 it bears the title of "The Hollywood Picture."

Purpose of the broadcast in drama and narrative form is to give what the network says will be "a penetrating behind-the-scenes view of the film industry."

MBS is changing things again. It is dropping Opinionaire at 10 and in its place is putting Manhattan Playhouse, in which scripts of light romance will be unfolded with show business as the background.

At 9:30 the Hollywood series has been cancelled, so that Family Theater can be moved in from Thursday nights, where it lost its time to a sponsor. Kate Smith will be the hostess for "Footsteps in the Night."

Bing Crosby and his ABC production at 10 expects Edgar Bergen and his Mortimer Snerd to supply enough comedy element for any necessary laugh purposes . . . Also guesting for the night is Maggie Teyte, listed for Your Song and Mine on CBS at 9.

By JOHN CROSBY

The Corn Is Green

In a medium where corn, as the word is understood in show business, has become a respected and lucrative though non-agricultural industry, "It Pays To Be Ignorant" deserves, and in my case, achieves a great measure of respect simply because the program harvests more per acre than any other.

John Crosby

For the benefit of those — as they say on the the radio — who tuned in late, "It Pays To Be Ignorant" is a veteran program both in respect to its age as a show and to the ripeness of its participants. It is a parody on all quiz programs; its moderator, Tom Howard, and its three experts — Harry McNaughton, Lulu McConnell and George Shelton — are cheerfully ignorant of all rational information but appear to have forgotten nothing ever written by Joe Miller.

As regards the jokes, no program on the air is more shameless. They tell jokes on this program that would cause even Joe Miller some embarrassment; they tell these ancient wheezes in a self-confident, unceasing roar that ranges from Tom Howard's foghorn tenor through McNaughton's bleating mockery of an English accent to Lulu McConnell's gravel-voiced screech.

The technique is simple. Howard howls a question at his experts, a really difficult question such as "In what country is the Bank of England?" Pandemonium then breaks out. No one ever gets around to answering the question but, for the next three minutes, the air is blue with every joke uttered about banks, about money, about England—each one worse than the last one but each exploded at you with such mastery of timing and inflection that you haven't time to examine the joke's antecedents.

"In what country is the Bank of England?" howls Tom Howard. "Mr. McNaughton, there's a question you out to know."

"Yes, indeed," squeals that raffish Englishman, McNaughton.

"No, I mean I ought to."

"Don't tell me you've lost the Bank of England already," bellows Shelton.

"He's just misplaced it," shrieks McNaughton.

"So I have something to fall back on."

"I wish I had enough money to buy an elephant," whispers Shelton, ratting the chandeliers.

"Why do you want to buy an elephant?"

"I don't. I just wish I had that much money."

"I got a cousin in Arizona who's worth $10,000."

"You got a cousin in Arizona worth $10,000?"

These terrible and wonderful gags hurtle out of your microphone at a speed considerably greater than sound is accustomed to travel; the teamwork of the four veteran comics is extraordinarily good, each one playing straight man when the occasion requires; and, even after making generous allowance for my personal idiosyncrasies, I'm forced to conclude they are very funny people.

Program Dealing With Movies On Radio Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Next on the documentary list of CBS—that will be Wednesday night—is an hour about the movies. Going on at 10 it bears the title of "The Hollywood Picture."

Purpose of the broadcast in drama and narrative form is to give what the network says will be "a penetrating behind-the-scenes view of the film industry."

MBS is changing things again. It is dropping Opinionaire at 10 and in its place is putting Manhattan Playhouse, in which scripts of light romance will be unfolded with show business as the background.

At 9:30 the Hollywood series has been cancelled, so that Family Theater can be moved in from Thursday nights, where it lost its time to a sponsor. Kate Smith will be the hostess for "Footsteps in the Night."

Bing Crosby and his ABC production at 10 expects Edgar Bergen and his Mortimer Snerd to supply enough comedy element for any necessary laugh purposes . . . Also guesting for the night is Maggie Teyte, listed for Your Song and Mine on CBS at 9.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved husband, and father, Edward W. Valentine, who passed away two years ago, November 3rd, 1946.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought his death so near,
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
He little thought when leaving home,
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep
And leave us here to mourn.
God knows how much we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid.
Sadly missed by his
Wife, son, and daughters

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved husband, and father, Edward W. Valentine, who passed away two years ago, November 3rd, 1946.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought his death so near,
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
He little thought when leaving home,
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep
And leave us here to mourn.
God knows how much we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid.
Sadly missed by his

Assault Report Being Probed

The reported assault of a 12-year-old West Oldtown Road boy early Monday night near the C. and O. canal by an unidentified man who offered him a ride in an automobile is being investigated by police.

Chief R. Emmett Flynn withheld the youth's identity, but said the boy was walking along Virginia Avenue about 6 p. m. when he saw the man working on his car.

The boy told police the man asked him to hold a light and later invited him to get into the car. They drove to the A. & P. Super Market on Wineow Street and the man parked the vehicle, the youth said.

According to police, the youth said the man walked him "over to the canal" and then assaulted him. Local hospitals had no reports showing the boy received treatment.

A pickup has been issued by police for a man about five feet, six inches tall, weighing between 150 and 160 pounds and about 40 or 45 years old. Additional information on his description was not divulged.

Police are also probing a breaking and entering at Andy's Food Market, 234 Baltimore Avenue, between 11:30 last night and 5 a. m. today. The proprietor, Andrew F. Santore, said nothing was taken.

Officer John Snyder said a hole was broken in the front door glass near the knob. The entry was discovered at 5:10 a. m.

Cresaptown Group To Have Bazaar Tomorrow

The Young Adult Group of the Cresaptown Methodist Church will hold a bazaar and birthday dinner at 7:30 tomorrow night for the benefit of the "Cemetery Fund."

This fund is used to improve the ground behind the old church cemetery and turn it into a recreation center for church groups. Plans are underway to install an outdoor fireplace in addition to the tables and benches already set up.

Besides the bazaar refreshments will be served at tables representing the various months of the year.

Assault Report Being Probed

The reported assault of a 12-year-old West Oldtown Road boy early Monday night near the C. and O. canal by an unidentified man who offered him a ride in an automobile is being investigated by police.

Chief R. Emmett Flynn withheld the youth's identity, but said the boy was walking along Virginia Avenue about 6 p. m. when he saw the man working on his car.

The boy told police the man asked him to hold a light and later invited him to get into the car. They drove to the A. & P. Super Market on Wineow Street and the man parked the vehicle, the youth said.

According to police, the youth said the man walked him "over to the canal" and then assaulted him. Local hospitals had no reports showing the boy received treatment.

A pickup has been issued by police for a man about five feet, six inches tall, weighing between 150 and 160 pounds and about 40 or 45 years old. Additional information on his description was not divulged.

Police are also probing a breaking and entering at Andy's Food Market, 234 Baltimore Avenue, between 11:30 last night and 5 a. m. today. The proprietor, Andrew F. Santore, said nothing was taken.

Officer John Snyder said a hole was broken in the front door glass near the knob. The entry was discovered at 5:10 a. m.

BEALL WINS RE-ELECTION TO CONGRESS

GOP Incumbent Has Plurality Of 12,203

Congressman Carries Montgomery County

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg and Cumberland Republican, was re-elected to Congress for a fourth term in yesterday's heavy balloting, defeating his Sixth District Democratic opponent F. Byrne Austin of Takoma Park, by a lead of more than 12,000 votes.

With only 10 of the district's polling places not reported, Beall had a total of 58,693 votes and Austin had 46,490, for a plurality of 12,203.

Beall carried Frederick County, Garrett County, Washington County and Montgomery County, losing

J. GLENN BEALL

Coincident with Beall's apparent loss of his home county, Austin also took a terrific loss in his home county, Montgomery. Political observers attempting to analyze the returns merely shook their heads.

In Allegany County, where Labor organizations made their first bid for political recognition and waged a terrific campaign against Beall, their efforts combined with that of the Democrats, was credited with Congressman Beall's defeat here. In 67 precincts of the county's 75, Beall had 12,742 votes to Austin's 13,040, for a difference of 298.

At 8:45 p. m. two more precincts were heard from, also reporting the top of the ticket. These were 22-2 A to J and 22-2 K to Z, both on Maryland Avenue.

Precinct 22-2 A to J gave Dewey and Warren 103 and Truman and Barkley 148, while 22-2 K to Z gave Dewey and Warren 144 and Truman and Barkley 239.

The total vote cast in these three precincts was 1,081 against a total registration of 1,654 for a voting percentage of about 66.

The Weather

Whether it rained because it was election day, or whether November is just naturally damp is an irrelevant question, but at any rate, there was .03 inches of rainfall yesterday. Not enough to get anyone wet, but enough to keep everyone looking anxiously at the muggy skies. The temperature went down to 57 degrees, not much higher than the overnight low of 48. Last night the thermometer showed 50 degrees and more clouds and evening showers are in store for today.

Nov. 15 Is Last Sure Overseas Mailing Date

Those contemplating sending overseas Christmas packages after the November 15 deadline set by the postoffice by air parcel post were warned yesterday by Acting Postmaster William C. McDermott that delivery on time could not be guaranteed.

The Army and Navy have been advised, he said, that air lift facilities at the present time are taxed to the utmost. Increase in mailing of air parcel post to service personnel overseas would result in matter being transferred via surface means at a later date of delivery.

Effective November 15 until December 31, postal employes will advise mailers of air parcel post parcels addressed to Army or Navy overseas postmasters that no assurance can be given for overseas air transportation. The packages will be accepted only if the sender agrees that they be transferred to surface carriers if necessary.

Food Prices Show Drop In October

Food prices in Cumberland, which have remained on a fairly even keel for several months, showed a decided drop in October, according to the cost of the Chamber of Commerce food basket.

The 15 items studied by the chamber cost $8.59 last Friday, a 22 cent drop from the October 1 total of $8.81. Drops in the price of butter and steak were chiefly responsible for the decrease. Virtually the only article showing an increase was eggs, which have been in the 83 cent range for the past two weeks. The same foods cost $9.01 in July.

ELECTION DAY HIGHLIGHTS

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

The argument that it takes a long list of local candidates to get out the vote was knocked for a loop in this county yesterday, when it was evident in the early morning hours that a record total vote would probably be piled up by poll closing time.

We visited 35 of the county's 75 polling places during the day and at no time was there a lull. Someone was casting a ballot, marking a ballot, giving a name, or waiting in line at every polling place visited. Judges and clerks all agreed that voting was "steady" and "heavy."

Earlier balloting seemed the vogue in District No. 6 on the West Side of the city. The 50 per cent or half way mark was reached there by early afternoon. In South Cumberland precincts, all of which are in the big voting District No. 4, things dragged a little during the morning and earlier afternoon. By 2:30 p. m. only a 30 per cent vote had been recorded in the district. Balloting became heavier around the supper hour and toward closing time.

An impressive factor in the balloting was the quiet, serious manner the vast majority of people appeared to have when they aproached the polls. There was little laughter and few comments made as voters got out of cars, entered polling places, returned and left. People were taking the election quite seriously and all seemed to be THINKING.

Party workers confined their activities to checking names of those appearing, and sending cars for those missing from the polls. In several large and "doubtful" precincts, one major party or the other had established a precinct headquarters, complete with telephones, workers and cars, at nearby homes or offices.

No one was passing out cards, button-holing voters or making a last minute drive to influence some citizen. There was no activity such as marks local city and county campaigns. A few workers were seen in one or two precincts to urge someone to vote for or against voting machines. But this effort was not general.

In local elections, many people have often wondered about the number of cars bearing candidates' placards which seemed to be just parked near polling places and not hauling many voters. This always has been the case in the past, but yesterday cars were moving. Drivers and workers earned the $12 or $15 paid them for the day.

Despite earlier reports that the Republican Party would have more cars out than the Democrats, this appeared doubtful. The Democrats had cars in every precinct and a fair share of workers, despite their lack of funds.

The Labor cars were the best decorated of the lot. Posters were placed on them uniformly and neatly, as if a general plan had been followed. It was easy to identify Labor's machines, even without the lettering, "LABOR," on each side of the hood.

Labor worked its own lists and assisted the Democratic workers throughout the day. One old-time Democrat precinct worker speaking of Labor's initial organized effort said, "I've been working the polls for 40 years and these boys know what they are doing. It's good to see them taking part. Seems like old times in the Democrat party."

The Young Democrats were busy too. Organized only four weeks ago and with a membership still under 100, almost every member was giving at least part of the day to the task of getting out the vote.

The Republicans, usually better organized, were much in evidence, but the only complaints heard came

Republican Leaders Pay Tribute To News For Aid To Dewey-Warren

Special Dispatch To Cumberland News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2 (CPS) — Outstanding Washington, National, Republican and civic bigwigs today paid high election day tribute to the loyal Republican stand of the Cumberland News in the campaign for the Dewey-Warren ticket as revealed in a current issue of the E. and P. roll call poll of Editor and Publisher, national fourth estate publication.

Leaders said the Cumberland News stand could be expected to help carry Maryland for the GOP ticket.

Among the first to applaud the Cumberland News was a veteran Republican national committeeman from the District of Columbia, Edward F. Colladay, who saw the Cumberland News' support heralding national victory.

"I think," said Colladay, "that the support given to the Dewey-Warren ticket throughout the campaign by such enterprising newspapers as the Cumberland News has been highly encouraging. I have little doubt Maryland will follow the Cumberland News to ring up a plurality for the Republican ticket which will win by sweeping proportions in the nation."

In announcing its "roll call' results placing the Cumberland News in the Dewey-Warren column in its national newspaper poll Editor and Publisher declares in part:

"Daily newspaper support in the Presidential campaign is still four to one in favor of Thomas E. Dewey over Harry S. Truman. In terms of circulation, the ratio of newspaper support is eight to one for Dewey over Truman."

Herbert Brownell, Jr., director of the Republican campaign and very close to Governor Dewey, commented: "I am gratified to learn of this recognition of support for the Dewey-Warren ticket by the Cumberland News."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth — the famous "Princess Alice" of the GOP, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt and widow of Speaker Longworth, expressed herself as "very much pleased" when told of the recognition of the Cumberland newspaper's staunch Dewey-Warren support.

Mme. Cantacuzene, President U. S. Grant's granddaughter, saw the Cumberland News poll position as "very interesting and helpful indeed. One striking factor in this whole campaign is the practical reunion of North and South. Maryland plays such a dramatic and dynamic part in this reunion. What Lincoln and my grandfather fought for was to bring the union together. Now, with another great Presidential candidate, we are producing an All-American team aimed to discard sectionalism and to provide real national unity."

Said one of America's leading historians, Dr. Charles C. Ransill. head

Everybody Gets Into Elections Nowadays

H. Lee Silcox was busily pasting stickers on the cars of a funeral procession in front of the Kight Funeral Home when an elderly gentleman asked him the location of the nearest polling place.

Silcox explained that voting was no longer done across the street but was now done at the corner of Frederick and Decatur Streets.

The gentleman thanked him and then, as an afterthought, asked, "What's this fellow, "Fun-eral" running for?"

Silcox merely answered he felt he was a losing candidate.

Beall Expresses Thanks To Voters

Rep J. Glenn Beall issued the following statement early this morning after his Democratic opponent, F. Byrne Austin, conceded defeat in the race for the Sixth Congressional District seat in the House of Representatives:

"I am very grateful to the people of the Sixth Congressional District for the confidence you have shown in me by re-electing me to Congress. I am particularly grateful to those hundreds of people who have given so generously of their time and effort.

"I am not unmindful of the serious problems that lie ahead, and I promise you that I shall continue to serve all the people in my district to the best of my ability and for the best interest of our country.

"I consider it my duty to cooperate with the President in his efforts to win that kind of peace that will bring happiness, contentment and prosperity not only to the people in our own United States, but to the people all over the world.

"In winning that peace we must guard against and drive out of nigh official offices in Washington those people who would destroy our American form of government."

Nine Precincts Are Still Out

With 70 of Allegany County's 75 precincts reported at 5 a. m. today President Truman took a 74 vote lead over Republican Candidate Thomas E. Dewey, with 13,713 votes to Dewey's 13,639.

As President Harry S. Truman and Republican Candidate Thomas E. Dewey ran neck-to-neck in the nation's vote of the most surprising presidential election in the history of the United States, the New York Governor gained a slight margin in Allegany County.

With nine of the county's 75 polling places still to be heard from early today, Gov. Dewey led President Truman 12,681 to 12,582. The county contest had see-sawed several times as results continued to come in.

As in the county, the President was losing out in the state where eight electoral votes will be cast for the President.

The traditionally Republican County was registering much surprise as the underdog incumbent continued to show strength enough to cling to a slim margin of the nation's electoral votes as well as the popular vote in the 48 states.

The nine precincts in Allegany County were scattered throughout the county and city with little in the way of prediction possible as a result of the surprisingly large vote President Truman received in many of the Republican dominated precincts of the county.

In the county as in the nation the election of a President of the United States remained in doubt early this morning and many of the political experts were already talking of the final decision being made in the United States House of Representatives.

Truman held a 124 vote lead as 54 precincts returned totals, but the margin was overcome as returns were reported for four polling places in Lonaconing, long known as a Republican stronghold in the county.

Despite rain and foggy weather, one of the largest votes in the history of Allegany County was being counted early this morning. Reports from 66 polling places already indicated that 67 per cent of the registered voters visited the polls yesterday to make a selection in the Presidential election.

The remaining two Presidential candidates that appeared on the Maryland ballot—Norman Thomas and Henry A. Wallace—were trailing far behind, with Wallace, who received less than 500 of the county's votes, leading Thomas by approximately 350 votes.

Counting either county or city votes made little difference in the contest between the two major contestants, although Gov. Dewey was ahead by a small majority in Cumberland.

With less than half of the indicated 67 per cent vote cast in the county totaled, the long time fear of Wallace's drawing power from the Democratic voters was fast being discounted.

Dewey's most powerful showing in the 54 precincts was made at Mt. Royal School where he received 418 votes to President Truman's 128. Neither of the trailing candidates received a single vote in the precinct.

President Truman's strength was not in evidence in any section of the counted returns, but a steady trend to overcome the GOP candidate's vote by small majorities enabled him to hold.

South Carolina's Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, presidential candidate on the States' Rights Democratic ticket, received two write-in votes in the 54 polling places. His name did not appear on the Maryland Ballot.

BEALL WINS RE-ELECTION TO CONGRESS

GOP Incumbent Has Plurality Of 12,203

Congressman Carries Montgomery County

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg and Cumberland Republican, was re-elected to Congress for a fourth term in yesterday's heavy balloting, defeating his Sixth District Democratic opponent F. Byrne Austin of Takoma Park, by a lead of more than 12,000 votes.

With only 10 of the district's polling places not reported, Beall had a total of 58,693 votes and Austin had 46,490, for a plurality of 12,203.

Beall carried Frederick County, Garrett County, Washington County and Montgomery County, losing

only his home county, Allegany, to Austin.

Coincident with Beall's apparent loss of his home county, Austin also took a terrific loss in his home county, Montgomery. Political observers attempting to analyze the returns merely shook their heads.

In Allegany County, where Labor organizations made their first bid for political recognition and waged a terrific campaign against Beall, their efforts combined with that of the Democrats, was credited with Congressman Beall's defeat here. In 67 precincts of the county's 75, Beall had 12,742 votes to Austin's 13,040, for a difference of 298.

First complete return from a precinct in Cumberland was reported at 11:45 p. m. from District 5, Precinct 4, A to J, at 307 Franklin Street.

Rep. Beall carried his home precinct by a vote of 198 against 123 for his opponent Austin. In the same voting place, Dewey polled 192 and Truman 134.

Dewey Leads In Early Returns

The first election report from Allegany County received at the NEWS office was telephoned at 8:35 p. m. from District 6, Precinct 1 at the Court House, giving Dewey and Warren 254 and Truman and Barkley 160.

At 8:45 p. m. two more precincts were heard from, also reporting the top of the ticket. These were 22-2 A to J and 22-2 K to Z, both on Maryland Avenue.

Precinct 22-2 A to J gave Dewey and Warren 103 and Truman and Barkley 148, while 22-2 K to Z gave Dewey and Warren 144 and Truman and Barkley 239.

The total vote cast in these three precincts was 1,081 against a total registration of 1,654 for a voting percentage of about 66.

Nov. 15 Is Last Sure Overseas Mailing Date

Those contemplating sending overseas Christmas packages after the November 15 deadline set by the postoffice by air parcel post were warned yesterday by Acting Postmaster William C. McDermott that delivery on time could not be guaranteed.

The Army and Navy have been advised, he said, that air lift facilities at the present time are taxed to the utmost. Increase in mailing of air parcel post to service personnel overseas would result in matter being transferred via surface means at a later date of delivery.

Effective November 15 until December 31, postal employes will advise mailers of air parcel post parcels addressed to Army or Navy overseas postmasters that no assurance can be given for overseas air transportation. The packages will be accepted only if the sender agrees that they be transferred to surface carriers if necessary.

Food Prices Show Drop In October

Food prices in Cumberland, which have remained on a fairly even keel for several months, showed a decided drop in October, according to the cost of the Chamber of Commerce food basket.

The 15 items studied by the chamber cost $8.59 last Friday, a 22 cent drop from the October 1 total of $8.81. Drops in the price of butter and steak were chiefly responsible for the decrease. Virtually the only article showing an increase was eggs, which have been in the 83 cent range for the past two weeks. The same foods cost $9.01 in July.

ELECTION DAY HIGHLIGHTS

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

The argument that it takes a long list of local candidates to get out the vote was knocked for a loop in this county yesterday, when it was evident in the early morning hours that a record total vote would probably be piled up by poll closing time.

We visited 35 of the county's 75 polling places during the day and at no time was there a lull. Someone was casting a ballot, marking a ballot, giving a name, or waiting in line at every polling place visited. Judges and clerks all agreed that voting was "steady" and "heavy."

Earlier balloting seemed the vogue in District No. 6 on the West Side of the city. The 50 per cent or half way mark was reached there by early afternoon. In South Cumberland precincts, all of which are in the big voting District No. 4, things dragged a little during the morning and earlier afternoon. By 2:30 p. m. only a 30 per cent vote had been recorded in the district. Balloting became heavier around the supper hour and toward closing time.

An impressive factor in the balloting was the quiet, serious manner the vast majority of people appeared to have when they aproached the polls. There was little laughter and few comments made as voters got out of cars, entered polling places, returned and left. People were taking the election quite seriously and all seemed to be THINKING.

Party workers confined their activities to checking names of those appearing, and sending cars for those missing from the polls. In several large and "doubtful" precincts, one major party or the other had established a precinct headquarters, complete with telephones, workers and cars, at nearby homes or offices.

No one was passing out cards, button-holing voters or making a last minute drive to influence some citizen. There was no activity such as marks local city and county campaigns. A few workers were seen in one or two precincts to urge someone to vote for or against voting machines. But this effort was not general.

In local elections, many people have often wondered about the number of cars bearing candidates' placards which seemed to be just parked near polling places and not hauling many voters. This always has been the case in the past, but yesterday cars were moving. Drivers and workers earned the $12 or $15 paid them for the day.

Despite earlier reports that the Republican Party would have more cars out than the Democrats, this appeared doubtful. The Democrats had cars in every precinct and a fair share of workers, despite their lack of funds.

The Labor cars were the best decorated of the lot. Posters were placed on them uniformly and neatly, as if a general plan had been followed. It was easy to identify Labor's machines, even without the lettering, "LABOR," on each side of the hood.

Labor worked its own lists and assisted the Democratic workers throughout the day. One old-time Democrat precinct worker speaking of Labor's initial organized effort said, "I've been working the polls for 40 years and these boys know what they are doing. It's good to see them taking part. Seems like old times in the Democrat party."

The Young Democrats were busy too. Organized only four weeks ago and with a membership still under 100, almost every member was giving at least part of the day to the task of getting out the vote.

The Republicans, usually better organized, were much in evidence, but the only complaints heard came

Republican Leaders Pay Tribute To News For Aid To Dewey-Warren

Special Dispatch To Cumberland News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2 (CPS) — Outstanding Washington, National, Republican and civic bigwigs today paid high election day tribute to the loyal Republican stand of the Cumberland News in the campaign for the Dewey-Warren ticket as revealed in a current issue of the E. and P. roll call poll of Editor and Publisher, national fourth estate publication.

Leaders said the Cumberland News stand could be expected to help carry Maryland for the GOP ticket.

Among the first to applaud the Cumberland News was a veteran Republican national committeeman from the District of Columbia, Edward F. Colladay, who saw the Cumberland News' support heralding national victory.

"I think," said Colladay, "that the support given to the Dewey-Warren ticket throughout the campaign by such enterprising newspapers as the Cumberland News has been highly encouraging. I have little doubt Maryland will follow the Cumberland News to ring up a plurality for the Republican ticket which will win by sweeping proportions in the nation."

In announcing its "roll call" results placing the Cumberland News in the Dewey-Warren column in its national newspaper poll Editor and Publisher declares in part:

"Daily newspaper support in the Presidential campaign is still four to one in favor of Thomas E. Dewey over Harry S. Truman. In terms of circulation, the ratio of newspaper support is eight to one for Dewey over Truman."

Herbert Brownell, Jr., director of the Republican campaign and very close to Governor Dewey, commented: "I am gratified to learn of this recognition of support for the Dewey-Warren ticket by the Cumberland News."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth — the famous "Princess Alice" of the GOP, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt and widow of Speaker Longworth, expressed herself as "very much pleased" when told of the recognition of the Cumberland newspaper's staunch Dewey-Warren support.

Mme. Cantacuzene, President U. S. Grant's granddaughter, saw the Cumberland News poll position as "very interesting and helpful indeed. One striking factor in this whole campaign is the practical reunion of North and South. Maryland plays such a dramatic and dynamic part in this reunion. What Lincoln and my grandfather fought for was to bring the union together. Now, with another great Presidential candidate, we are producing an All-American team aimed to discard sectionalism and to provide real national unity."

Everybody Gets Into Elections Nowadays

H. Lee Silcox was busily pasting stickers on the cars of a funeral procession in front of the Kight Funeral Home when an elderly gentleman asked him the location of the nearest polling place.

Silcox explained that voting was no longer done across the street but was now done at the corner of Frederick and Decatur Streets.

The gentleman thanked him and then, as an afterthought, asked, "What's this fellow, "Fun-eral" running for?"

Silcox merely answered he felt he was a losing candidate.

Beall Expresses Thanks To Voters

Rep J. Glenn Beall issued the following statement early this morning after his Democratic opponent, F. Byrne Austin, conceded defeat in the race for the Sixth Congressional District seat in the House of Representatives:

"I am very grateful to the people of the Sixth Congressional District for the confidence you have shown in me by re-electing me to Congress. I am particularly grateful to those hundreds of people who have given so generously of their time and effort.

"I am not unmindful of the serious problems that lie ahead, and I promise you that I shall continue to serve all the people in my district to the best of my ability and for the best interest of our country.

"I consider it my duty to cooperate with the President in his efforts to win that kind of peace that will bring happiness, contentment and prosperity not only to the people in our own United States, but to the people all over the world.

"In winning that peace we must guard against and drive out of nigh official offices in Washington those people who would destroy our American form of government."

Nine Precincts Are Still Out

With 70 of Allegany County's 75 precincts reported at 5 a. m. today President Truman took a 74 vote lead over Republican Candidate Thomas E. Dewey, with 13,713 votes to Dewey's 13,639.

As President Harry S. Truman and Republican Candidate Thomas E. Dewey ran neck-to-neck in the nation's vote of the most surprising presidential election in the history of the United States, the New York Governor gained a slight margin in Allegany County.

With nine of the county's 75 polling places still to be heard from early today, Gov. Dewey led President Truman 12,681 to 12,582. The county contest had see-sawed several times as results continued to come in.

As in the county, the President was losing out in the state where eight electoral votes will be cast for the President.

The traditionally Republican County was registering much surprise as the underdog incumbent continued to show strength enough to cling to a slim margin of the nation's electoral votes as well as the popular vote in the 48 states.

The nine precincts in Allegany County were scattered throughout the county and city with little in the way of prediction possible as a result of the surprisingly large vote President Truman received in many of the Republican dominated precincts of the county.

In the county as in the nation the election of a President of the United States remained in doubt early this morning and many of the political experts were already talking of the final decision being made in the United States House of Representatives.

The local support for Truman seemed due in large measure to labor's efforts yesterday to get out the Democratic vote.

Truman held a 124 vote lead as 54 precincts returned totals, but the margin was overcome as returns were reported for four polling places in Lonaconing, long known as a Republican stronghold in the county.

Despite rain and foggy weather, one of the largest votes in the history of Allegany County was being counted early this morning. Reports from 66 polling places already indicated that 67 per cent of the registered voters visited the polls yesterday to make a selection in the Presidential election.

The remaining two Presidential candidates that appeared on the Maryland ballot—Norman Thomas and Henry A. Wallace—were trailing far behind, with Wallace, who received less than 500 of the county's votes, leading Thomas by approximately 350 votes.

Counting either county or city votes made little difference in the contest between the two major contestants, although Gov. Dewey was ahead by a small majority in Cumberland.

With less than half of the indicated 67 per cent vote cast in the county totaled, the long time fear of Wallace's drawing power from the Democratic voters was fast being discounted.

Dewey's most powerful showing in the 54 precincts was made at Mt. Royal School where he received 418 votes to President Truman's 128. Neither of the trailing candidates received a single vote in the precinct.

President Truman's strength was not in evidence in any section of the counted returns, but a steady trend to overcome the GOP candidate's vote by small majorities enabled him to hold.

South Carolina's Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, presidential candidate on the States' Rights Democratic ticket, received two write-in votes in the 54 polling places. His name did not appear on the Maryland Ballot.
